Dedication

To the Aggie Men in Service

This Index is well dedicated; never was one better. Previous volumes, after the usual manner, have been kindly and generously dedicated, as an expression of appreciation and goodwill, to individuals. Uniformly they have been dedicated to some friend, teacher, leader, inspirer,—men who, by their helpful and unselfish spirit or by the power of rare personal qualities, or both, have made a deep and lasting impression upon the mind and heart of the Index class. On the other hand, here is a volume dedicated to a large group of Aggie men, undergraduates and alumni, which at this moment has reached the proud total of more than four hundred, a percentage not exceeded by many, if any, colleges in the country. To this group, part of whom we have never seen, the 1919 Index is dedicated with an affection which cannot be expressed as a humble tribute, a feeble intimation, of the great regard and heartfelt respect in which we hold them.

As you sweep forward from campus and home to answer the great call, no wonder that we, who because of age or of youth are unable to join you, look upon you as transfigured, for transfigured you verily are by the whole-souled response you have made to the spell of this mighty conflict. No wonder we look upon you in rapt and reverent admiration as you pass by; no wonder whenever we think of you, we feel like taking off our hats in profoundest respect and honor! You are real heroes, you men, and our heroes too! You will forever more, we have faith to believe, take rank beside the men of Marathon and the men of Gettysburg and the thousands of splendid souls who have fought for the great cause during the centuries intervening between those momentous days. This will be true if you never know battle on any field, for already you have manifested the same indomitable spirit, the same high consecration to great purposes as have characterized the world's best in every supreme test.

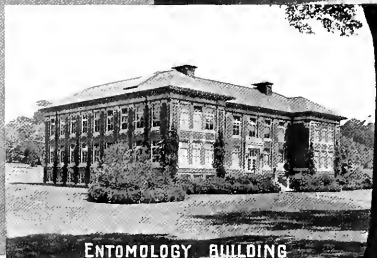

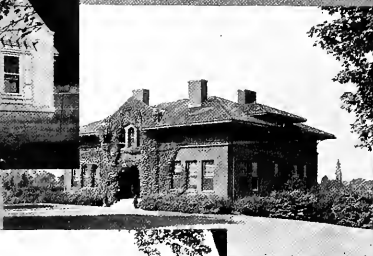

It is entirely fitting that we should try to honor you even in this meagre way. In every way it is fitting that we should try, for what a wonderful measure of honor have you brought to us and what lustre have you added to the good name of our Alma Mater! We fully realize, however, that in no way can we pay you your full and just reward. "We cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow" your long list of names. Your conduct has been so splendid and fine that it is "beyond our power to add or to detract." It is for us, as it was for those others, to dedicate ourselves to the same task and to follow your example to the last; to walk in your footsteps along the hard, difficult, and long road that leads to the ultimate goal of liberty, to take our places by your side when the time comes, and, if need be, to yield with you the last full measure of devotion. It is in this spirit and with this fixed determination that the 1919 Index is dedicated to you who since last spring have so gloriously and nobly led the way. God bless you.

History in the Making

You ask us for a history, but our thoughts are not of the past, they leap forward unbidden into the near unfathomable future. At our elbows are "Collegians" containing the names of fourteen men of our number who have been selected for the officers' training camp. Statistics also show twenty-one of our original class to be commissioned officers, and forty-five more to be in the service in other capacities. Eleven of these have already gone over.

We see the past only as it reflects upon the uncertain present, and the veiled future. The memories of losing our freshman rope pulls and football game, and sophomore basketball, rifle, and banquet scrap, were always overshadowed by those of winning freshman baseball, basketball and banquet, sophomore rope pulls, picture scrap, and football; but even coupled with thoughts of the Junior Prom and "tree-planting," and our victory over all comers including the faculty in interclass football this fall, the whole is dim and unimportant.

We see our Freshman days happy and scarcely ruffled by the gigantic conflict. Our Sophomore year heard only an occasional grumble over the increasing cost of living. But the Junior year began to bear in upon us a more personal interest in the struggle. It changed the whole face of that third term. Eagerly we looked for something to do in behalf of the great cause, and tumbled pell-mell into service,—mostly agricultural. There will be few who can forget those days of indecision, the upset condition which followed the forcing home of the news that this war was to be ours. For the most part, the sacrifice of the term was more than repaid in experience. Yet, in the following fall only 57 of our men returned to us. A feeling of restlessness pervaded the class, and still does.

Why? One of the greatest questions that ever faces men confronts us now. "What is my duty—await the draft, or enlist?" These are questions each man is answering for himself, as his conscience and judgment dictate. As a result, we are losing men from our classes, one at a time, slowly but surely. When we see their places vacant, we know one more decision has been made.

Now it is that we merge ourselves into the common cause, and lose our own individual identities that future histories may tell of how America fought for Democracy and won.

CLASS OF 1919

Junior Class History

This is an unusual year! Prexy hinted this to us last fall, the price of our board strengthened our convictions, and the blustering weather of December, January and February removed all shadows of doubt. It is a year of the unheard of, the improbable, the unexpected; it is a year of speculation and unrest; it is a year when any shell game proposed by the powers that be, will "get by." For instance, we calmly burn wood when the Fuel Administration refuses us coal; we cheerfully accept an abbreviated system of concentrated, pre-digested education which does no more harm nor good than any previous system; we are deprived of our soft chapel seats, making sleep more difficult; and, unheard of in the annals of the institution, we submit without a murmur to ten hours of drill per week. These few things prove the "unusuality" of the year.

How different from the fall of 1915 when the class of 1919 entered M. A. C. as a record-breaking class with an enrollment of well over two hundred. The college was prospering, and on the upward road of progress and success. We had the greatest football team of years, a team that could play Harvard to a standstill. All other activities, athletic and otherwise, were expanding and going on at full tilt. Compare all this with college as it has been this year, minus a varsity football team, and enrollment of one-half size, and far less activities.

In the old days 1919 was "The Class." In athletics, debating, shooting, etc., her teams excelled. With two exceptions she won every 1918-1919 interclass contest. She was the first class to produce teams that could defeat a certain well-known nearby Academy in all sports. A thousand times since then she has well proven her worth. But now she has been reduced to nearly one-half her initial enrollment and daily the old guard grows small. This decrease and the unusual year have been brought about by a cause which we know well, and which is brought more closely to us as our college and classmates go to take their part in the great struggle. It remains with us who stay, to uphold the spirit and ideals of M. A. C. and 1919, and when we go forth they will help and strengthen us for the need of the Nation.

"STUBBY"

"I'll speak in a monstrous little voice"

Proctor, Vermont A X A House
Proctor High School

August 12, 1896; Chemistry; A X A; Manager Class Football (3).

"Stubby" hails from the Green Mountain State, the home of big things. However, the boy's greatness lies not in the 5 ft. 4 in. he boasts of, but his ability to "be there" when 1919 needs him. It is no secret that he is a great admirer of the gentler sex—from a distance—but it would surprise most of us if he didn't pick a winner. "Stubby" can usually be found in the vicinity of the Chem Lab, but what attraction he finds there is enough to scare a man who hasn't got this "stuff" to get what he goes out for.

Quincy Austin Bagg

"QUINCE"

"To be and not to seem"

South Hadley 9 North College
South Hadley High School

November 2, 1898; Animal Husbandry; A Σ Φ; Class Basketball (2); Class Football (3).

We have here a boy who received his elementary education at Mt. Holyoke. "Quince" came to us last year from Colgate University. He has quietly battled his way to an unquestionable standing among his classmates, both with his bean and his muscle. So far as we are able to find out, he has selected dairying as his idea of a perfect life. Should he ever forsake the "lowing kine," we fear he would become long grow lonesome and reseek the wilds of South Hadley.

William Alphonso Baker

"BILL"

*"A pipe, some makings, a match,
Oh! who would save a life."*

Melrose A X A House
Melrose High School

August 14, 1898; Entomology; A X A; Class Basketball (1, 2); Assistant Manager Baseball (2); Smoker Committee (3).

The youthful ruff-neck comes to our circle from Melrose, in which place he played as a child. He is far from being quiet, for where there is something doing you are always sure to find "Bill." Baker seems to have been able to bluff his way by the Profs with one exception, for he still takes his place with a younger generation and carefully dissects the little animals under "Doc" Gordon's watchful eye. "Bill" is majoring in Ent. with the hopes that in after days he may be able to work at a "Government Job."

William Herbert Baker, Jr.

"BILL"

"Not a better man was found, by the crier on his round"
Chesterfield      θ X House

Mt. Hermon School

March 8, 1897; Animal Husbandry; θ X; Class Baseball (1); Glee Club (3); Animal Husbandry Club (3).

On the morning of the 8th of March, 1897, "Bill" threw the busy Chesterfield into confusion by answering the roll call for the first time. He has been living a riotous life ever since; often he is seen to take a book out of the library. "Bill's" chief recreation is tossing a baseball. He claims to be a non-fusser, yet we notice he often makes mysterious week-end trips. "Bill" has decided that raising sheep and hogs, not to say H—, is the ideal life.

Stewart Putnam Batchelder

"BATCH"

*"The sweetest hours that e'er I spend
Are spent among the lasses, O."*

North Reading      Q. T. V. House
Reading High School

October 23, 1898; Animal Husbandry; Q. T. V.; Class Baseball (1); Class Basketball (1, 2); Senate (3); Inter-Fraternity Conference (3); Chairman, Soph-Senior Hop Committee (2); Informal Committee (3); Assistant Manager Football (2); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Animal Husbandry Club; Class Athletic Board (1); Index Board; Chairman Junior Prom Committee.

"Batch" first saw light in this world in the rural community of North Reading. After a thorough preparation at Reading High, S. P. came to Aggie very ambitious in regard to Agriculture, and enthusiastic for the welfare of "Old Massachusetts." He has always been able to fool the Profs, and early in his college career acquired the habit of being exempt from finals. His election to the Senate, Soph-Senior Hop Committee, Informal Committee and class office shows his popularity. After two more years, Stewart expects to make a study of the "Rural New Englander," as one of them, on a real progressive farm.

Carlton Douglas Blanchard

"RED"      "GRANITE"

"They all look the same to me."

Uxbridge      K Σ House

Uxbridge High School

April 23, 1898; Pomology; K Σ; Class Football (1, 3); Class Basketball (1, 2); Varsity Football (2); Varsity Basketball (3).

Above is "Red's" favorite expression, and if you do not believe it, line up in a game before his 180 lbs. of bone and muscle—mostly bone—and see if they look the same to him. "Red's" one great fault is to fall asleep in class. Even ammonia beneath his nose does not seem to disturb "Granite's" sonorous slumbers. He is so popular with the ladies that he takes a different one to each informal, but—"there's a reason." If "Red" could only fit with the girls as he does with the fellows, he would be able to start a harem that would make the Sultan green with envy.

Herbert Richard Bond

"BONDY"

"Men of few words are the best men"

Needham

Dover High School

Φ Σ K House

January 18, 1898; Animal Husbandry; Φ Σ K; Class Football (1, 2, 3); Animal Husbandry Club (3).

Herbie's motto seems to be: To every action there is an equal and opposite reaction. When he was a freshman he played football against Ed Perry. That was the action. This year he has been playing in the interclass games, and if you have seen them, you have seen the reaction. He is also the exchange mail man and in that way, though by no effort of his own he has become one of the most important men on the campus. If the good wishes of his classmates mean anything, he need have no fears for the future.

Arthur Newton Bowen

"BUNNY"

"Here, a little child, I stand"

Providence, R. I.

7 South College

Quincy High School

February 3, 1897; Pomology; Α Γ Ρ; Collegian Board (2, 3); Editor Y. M. C. A. 1921 Handbook (3).

This cute boy lives in the little Johnny Cake state, Rhode Island. At registration time a peculiar circumstance arises, for he then claims Quincy as his home. His waddle is very peculiar, and as for form, Oh boy! he has any of Ziegfeld's beauties beat a mile. Arthur is a lover of the fair sex as can well be proven. His ability as a writer won him a place on the Collegian Board and yet we can't understand his majoring in pomology, unless it was at a moment when he was gazing toward the superabundant fruit of success.

Maurice Stetson Bowen

"On their own merits modest men are dumb"

Lakeville

81 North Pleasant Street

Middleboro High School

June 9, 1896; Animal Husbandry; Commons Club; Stockbridge Club (1); Animal Husbandry Club (3).

Whether the animals are wild or tame is all the same to Maurice. When he is not studying them in his classes, he may be found somewhere out in the hills getting acquainted with nature. Not that he needs a much closer acquaintance than he has, but he certainly keeps up what he possesses. Few of us really know "Miss Bowen," but he has some loyal friends, only proving again the old saying: "All is not gold that glitters."

Alan Freeman Boyce

"BOYCEY"

*"And stirred with accents deep and loud
The hearts of all the listening crowd."*

Melrose 83 Pleasant Street
Melrose High School

October 10, 1897; Landscape; Commons Club; Orchestra (2, 3); Mandolin Club (1, 2, 3); Glee Club (3); Landscape Club (3); Class Track (3).

Alan sings. It is not a bad voice at that, but it certainly does stir the hearts of his classmates in chapel. Alan could never quite understand why the scholarship committee couldn't have arranged his schedule so that he wouldn't have to get up in the morning to attend a first hour class. We understand that Alan has acquaintances over the mountain as well as across the river, but he is very reserved in speaking about them. He is majoring in Landscape Gardening, and the world is sure of some day benefitting by his work.

*Raymond Woods Boynton

"FATHER" "PEP"

"Oh, gentle night, thou wert not sent for slumber"

Framingham A S Φ House
Worcester Academy

Microbiology; A S Φ.

From the halls of Worcester Academy came our illustrious "Pep." Upon his arrival, he sentenced us to the radiating effect of his smile, punctuated at both ends by dimples. "Father" spends most of his time browsing around among the microbes whose habitat is the Micro Building. Studious at times, yet he finds time to dispense sunshine among the fair sex. His genial disposition is of the nth power. Look well to your laurels, O ye scientists, for here is one of us whose name shall be proclaimed from the housetops.

Sylvia Bowen Brigham

"PAT"

"A star that dartles the red and the blue"

Newtonville Draper Hall
Newton High School

November 28, 1897; Landscape; A S Φ.

It is difficult to introduce you correctly to Sylvia. "Pat" is in a class by herself. She is refreshingly frank and says what she thinks when she thinks it, and if you don't like it—. "Pat" has many and varied interests, from baseball, basketball, and tennis to knitting, landscape gardening, and light philosophy. She pursues all of them with the same enthusiasm and energy that is bound to obtain results, and we feel free to maintain that she will follow a successful career for herself in her major, Landscape Gardening, with ease.

Eliot Mansfield Buffum

"BUFF"

"For God's sake hold your tongue and let me love"
Waban College Store

Newton High School

July 15, 1897; Animal Husbandry; Q. T. V.; Class Hockey (1, 2); Class Tennis (1, 2, 3); Stockbridge Club (2, 3); Animal Husbandry Club (3); Collegian Board (1, 2, 3); Index Board (3); Assistant Manager Baseball (2).

"Buff" came down from Waban a fat little boy with the most beautiful dimples. He is a bold, bad man now. His thirst for the strenuous life is always in evidence on the hockey rink or tennis court, and cribbage becomes a "major" sport when Buffum is pegging. Yet, at times, he gets very subdued and retires to his lair in the College Store to "romp all over the page." At present he has desires for two things: first, closer touch with Lenox, Mass., and second, a thorough knowledge of Ani Huzz. If he gets after them with the drive that has marked all his college course he will surely get them.

Henry John Burt

*"In arguing, too, the Parson own'd his skill,
For e'en though vanquished, he could argue still."*

Arlington

66 Pleasant Street

Somerville High School

April 11, 1895; Rural Sociology; Commons Club; Class Debating (1); Varsity Debating (1, 2, 3); Public Speaking Council (1, 2, 3); Class Secretary (1); Burnham Winner (1); Flint Oratorical (1); Index Board (3); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (3).

Still waters run deep, but even still waters can be ruffled. Burt actually went over to South Hadley Falls twice in our knowledge during his sophomore year. Yet, despite this terrible slipping on his part, we must give him credit for his excellent line, when it comes to a debate. Even in a short argument he is right there with the goods. He says that a good public speaker must practise all the time, and we well know he believes in practising what he preaches. Burt is one of the few majoring in Rural Soc. and intends to carry it out, too, perhaps as a local preacher at Cushman, or a Y. M. C. A. Secretary.

Lee Williams Burton

"BURT"

Plainville

3 North College

Worcester Academy

November 12, 1895; Pomology; K I Φ; Orchestra (1, 2, 3); Pomology Club.

"Burt" is not a very noisy chap, that is, with his mouth, as he prefers to have his fiddle talk for him. Whenever you are within hearing distance of North College you can hear those sweet strains being coaxed from his violin. "Burt" has chosen Pom. for his major and last fall in Aggie Ec. 75 he told Doc Cance a few things about marketing his product. It has always been a mystery to some of us why "Burt" struggled through three terms of Feeds and Feeding, but we suppose it was so that his apple trees would be properly nourished. Just at present he is devoting most of his attention to flying. Perhaps if you look real close you can see his wings.

John Edward Callanan

"CAL"

"How long will it be ere ye make an end of words, Mark, and afterwards we will speak."

Dorchester 60 Pleasant Street
Boston English High School

September 14, 1896; Agricultural Economics; K Γ Φ;
Class Track (1, 2, 3); Interfraternity Conference; Catholic Club; Economics Club.

Nature has produced marvels, but she excelled herself when she delivered Aggie this gifted youth. John has travelled through every town in the U. S., has been Mayor of Dorchester and has never lost his way in Boston. If you don't believe us, ask him. "Doc" Cance drew a valuable addition to his major in "Cal," for as an information bureau he can't be equalled. John is intimately acquainted with all well educated people, including the fair sex. He is a model student, getting O K 75 marks by never increasing the electric light bill, in fact, his aim in a college education is to make his tongue save his hands.

Vincent DePaul Callanan

"VIN"

*"When Sergt. Lee says 'V-D-P'!
This is the Cal he wants to see."*

Malden Draper Hall
Malden High School

July 5, 1896; Agricultural Economics; Class Track (1, 2);
Rifle Club; Economics Club; Catholic Club; Class Football
(3).

How V-D-P happens to be rooming at Draper Hall was a mystery for a while, and may be still for some. It is because "Cal's" day begins at 4.30 A. M. He is a "regular" baker and they can't get along without him. That is the only reason he hasn't been more in the limelight. Also, "Cal" need do nothing but clip Liberty Bond coupons this year. That shows the sort of fellow V-D-P is! He is the sort worth knowing.

Hall Bryant Carpenter

"CARP"

"Catch him and you can have him."

Somerville K Σ House
Somerville High School

June 10, 1896; Entomology; K Σ; Class Track (1, 2, 3);
Secretary-Treasurer Y. M. C. A. (3); Varsity Track (1);
Entomology Club (3); Interclass Athletic Board (2).

An exquisite collection of grace, nerve and good humor. These qualities have helped much in giving "Carp" clear title to the indoor and outdoor mile records. Besides being one of Aggie's star track performers he is of late listed in the social four hundred. 'Tis queer how a few months with the fair ones at summer school improve one's various capacities. "Never worry" is certainly the instigation of many of his timely remarks. Although Hall does not manifest a whole lot of concern about the books, he surely gets in on a large share of the nightly bull fests. Lead on MacDuff, I'm from Somerville!

Olive Evangeline Carroll

"BILLIE"

"A countenance in which did meet Sweet records, promises as sweet."

Dorchester 33 East Pleasant Street
Dorchester High School

November 14, 1896; Botany; Δ Φ Γ; Class Vice-President (2).

It was Botany that brought "Billie" to Aggie, and we think it is Botany that is still keeping her here. However that may be, we are glad she's with us. Olive is not such a great athlete, but she is right there on the good times, and as to making good things to eat—"oh boy!" In the fall of 1916 "Billie" met "Billy," but her gentle nature could not stand the teaching of "force" by force,—and we understand she was in the "amen row." However, "the female of the species is more deadly than the male." So—good luck, "Billie."

Morton Harding Cassidy

"MORT"

"Why so thoughtful, youth? She will be true to you always"

East Boston East Boston High School Plant House

March 8, 1897; Forestry, Δ X Δ; Orchestra (1); Assistant Manager Hockey (3); Landscape Club (3); Index Board (3).

"Mort" spent some years preceding his arrival upon this campus in the little town of East Boston. A quiet, bashful youth, whose greatest pastime is to roam the Pelham Hills with his sweetheart (the old shotgun). "Mort" has a great affinity for Prexy's hill, quite evident by the "eats" offered to his guests. He has kidded himself into believing that he likes nature so well that he has decided to major in Forestry.

Arthur Lincoln Chandler

"ART"

"A very riband in the cap of youth"

Leominster 12 South College
Leominster High School

September 30, 1897; General Agriculture; Σ Φ Ε; Collegian (2, 3); Manager Class Hockey (2); Stockbridge Club; Index Board.

"Art" is one of those big Leominster boys. He came among us in 1915 with the avowed purpose of reforming the world, but, alas, two years of college life have destroyed this idea. "Snick" has made a few attempts to break into the society of the fair ones, but is as yet untamed. He really has a well-concealed criminal tendency, for he has been known to smoke a cigarette and play poker. That his nose is newsy is proven by his job on The Collegian. And as for studies, they worry him not a bit.

Malcolm Willis Chase

"MAL"

"Speaking little, but thinking well"

Amesbury Amesbury High School 94 Pleasant Street

July 21, 1896; Dairying: K I Φ; Stockbridge Club (2, 3); Band (1); Bugle Corps (2, 3).

Malcolm is such a quiet, persevering chap, whose favorite indoor sport is holding the animals in Ani Hus class. His manner was, Oh, so sedate until the end of his sophomore year, when he went out for a place on the fussing team. Since then he has been known to his personal friends as the "village Smithy." "Mal" takes great delight in blowing "Assembly" on his bugle at about 2 A. M. just to show the "cottage spirit." When in doubt on topics criminal, consult this son of Amesbury,—he was master at the Lyman Reform School once.

Robert Dudley Chisholm

"BOB"

"I just can't make my feet behave"

Melrose Highlands Melrose High School Φ Σ K House

November 18, 1897; Chemistry: Φ Σ K; Varsity Hockey (2); Senate (3); Class Hockey (1, 2); Manager Class Basketball (1); Informal Committee (3); Class Secretary (1); Class Vice-President (3); Class Athletic Board (1); Interfraternity Conference (3); Soph-Senior Hop Committee (2); Assistant Manager Football (3); Junior Prom Committee.

On seeing "Bob" promenading the campus, one would say, "Where was the accident?" but in reality he is not so dead as he looks. In fact, he is into everything, especially the hockey cage, where he is very expert at putting the puck with his nose. He has bulldozed P. Whittle and D. Ross since freshman year, but P. B. Hasbrouck is very friendly with "Bob," as he helps Billy with his one-way special. Although he is a leader in practically all he does, it is impossible for him to lead one of the gentle sex in terpsichorean endeavor.

Ernest Laurier Coderre

"CODY"

"Wisdom in sable garb arrayed."

Southbridge A Σ Φ House Southbridge High School

October 8, 1896; Agricultural Economics: A Σ Φ; Class Track (2, 3); Manager Class Basketball (2).

Behold, comes among us, a second Daniel Webster, surpassed by no one in argument or in the use of gigantic words. The ultimate result of a verbal battle with this mighty little man is, "I stand convicted." "Cody" came to us, a track man in the embryo stage, but experience, gathered in interclass meets, has placed him among the best. Baseball also claims him as a player of no mean ability. The future holds much in store for this peppery little Frenchman and we all expect him to be instrumental in reorganizing the agricultural conditions of the foreign nations after the war.

Robert Burleigh Collins

"Bob"

"Those curious locks, whose every hair a soul doth bind"

Rockland

Θ X House

Rockland High School

April 29, 1898; Agricultural Economics; Θ X; Class Debating (1); Interfraternity Conference (3); Agricultural Economics Club; Assistant Manager Hockey (3); Index Board.

Dame Fortune smiled on Robert in youth, and gave him what is denied to most of us, the qualities of good looks combined with common sense. Though seen often across the river, and at informals, yet "Bob" has been proof against the darts of the gentle sex, and even went West this summer looking over new fields. We are finding out more of his abilities the longer he is with us, and this year he shows his business ability from behind the counter in the College Store. Studies haven't worried "Bob" so far, and probably won't at this stage of the game.

Alfred Francis Cosby

"Red"

"Costly thy raiment at thy purse can buy"

Westfield

15 Amity Street

Westfield High School

January 3, 1897; Chemistry; Σ Φ E.

"Red" hails from the town of Westfield. He chose this college as his alma mater because it is near home, and also in fussy distance (i. e., arm's reach) of Holyoke. "Red" busies himself quite a bit in the town, and to such an extent out of town that sometimes we almost forget him. When he is around, though, "Red" is full of pep and scatters sunshine (or is it only his hair?) wherever he goes. "Red" is very exacting about his apparel, and likes to cut as good a figure as the next fellow. He makes Chemistry his major as a means to an end, namely, to have an easy and lucrative job, so that he may be able to dress as befits his social obligations.

Charles Cameron Crowe

"CHARLIE"

"A fountain of wit, tho well concealed"

Norwich, Conn.

K Σ House

Norwich Free Academy

July 24, 1896; Pomology; K Σ; Class Basketball (2); Glee Club (3); Soph-Senior Hop Committee (2); Assistant Manager Basketball (3); Pom Club (3); Index Board; Leader Glee Club (3); Junior Prom Committee.

So quiet was "Charlie" when he first landed on Aggie soil that few of us could fathom his depths. However, Baker Place soon knew him for the good fellow that he is, and he has gradually worked his way into our hearts. "Charlie" says: "My father was Scotch and I am proud of it." At any rate, he has the ready wit to back up his statement, and if you don't believe it ask him to sing you one of his original ditties. He is a good athlete, too, as those who saw him on the basketball floor last year will testify.

*Harold Ralph Day

"BONE"

"How are they going?"

Milford

A  $\Sigma$   $\Phi$  House

Hopedale High School

January 7, 1897; Journalism; A  $\Sigma$   $\Phi$ .

Ah, there! Hello, humor! Enter the shade of Longfellow. That he hails from Hopedale, is in itself sufficient to explain why he chose the literary field. Our ruralists will have to look up to "Bone," for, minus the pedal ornaments, he stands 6 feet 3 inches. Athletics have never attracted "Bone," for his aspirations have always been along social lines. As a social light, he is a distinct success. If you want to know a "Jane," ask "Bone." As one of the few survivors of "Baker Place," he has proved his worth in a "survival of the fittest."

Victor Abel Dickinson

"PINK"

"He hath a daily beauty in his life."

"He wears the rase of youth upon him."

Amherst

Amherst High School

4 North College

May 25, 1896; Chemistry.

Victor A. Dickinson first opened his orbs to the azure above in Virginia. Despite this Booth Tarkington handicap, "Pink" is flaring ever and anon before us. And concerning his "head-light," there hangs a tale. 'Tis said that while burrowing in the bright brickdust of that vicinity to escape, ostrich-like, feminine admiration, the scarlet pigment was transferred, dust to dome. During his stay here, we have come to believe his major is physics and Mt. Holyoke, the former required and the latter elective. Perhaps, however, he will delude us and in the last analysis discover a camouflage to beat peroxide. He has our moral support.

*Charles Oliver Dubar

"DIDDLE"

"I may be small but, watch me!"

Westfield

84 Pleasant Street

Westfield High School

October 12, 1895; Chemistry;  $\Sigma$   $\Phi$  E; Band (1, 2, 3); Orchestra (1, 2); Mandolin Club (1, 2).

"Diddle" joined the immortal class of 1919 with a rattle and a roll of drums. He first touched the sticks in the wilds of Westfield. At Aggie his principal activity has been to rattle the traps and beat the drums in the musical clubs, band and orchestra. His frank smile and genial disposition are more often displayed on the way to Holyoke than on the campus. As a baseball player he sure surprised them all by his clever pitching in the Sunrise League. At present his chief ambition is to be a soldier. Although apparently very quiet and unassuming, "Diddle" has proved himself otherwise when out "among 'em," for his weakness for the fair sex has led him to pursue advanced courses in fussing.

Bena Gertrude Erhard

"SUNSHINE" "GERTY"

"Kind hearts are more than coronets."

East Milton 8 Draper Hall

Milton High School

October 29, 1897; Agriculture; Δ Φ Γ.

"Sunshine," as she is generally known, is a very staunch and loyal supporter of Aggie, and is right there with the Aggie pep when it is needed. Bena is majoring in agriculture with the idea of sometime owning and bossing a ranch in Texas. As a relief from study she is keen about hiking and skiing, with an Informal or so thrown in on the side. She is remarkable for keeping secrets and may be trusted with any confidence. Her frankness is sometimes disconcerting but her utter sincerity entirely makes up for it. In fact, she is all right!

Gunnar Emanuel Erickson

"ERIC"

"I am not in the roll of common men!"

Lynn 9 South College

Lynn Classical High School

1897; Agricultural Economics; Commons Club; Class Track (1, 2); Glee Club (3); Economics Club; Index Board.

The dear old town of Lynn has sent one of her most noted individuals to conquer M. A. C. Needless to state, this flax-haired youth has made a most profound impression upon the campus, and also the worshipping damsels in Smith and Mt. Holyoke, not to mention North Amherst. "Eric" is somewhat of a "shark," and worries not a bit over his lessons. His nose for statistics led him into that department of the Index Board, as well as into an Aggie Ec major.

Myrton Files Evans

"MYRT"

*"Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more!
Men were deceivers ever."*

West Somerville K Σ House

Somerville High School

January 1, 1898; Agricultural Economics; K Σ; Class Rifle Team (1); Manager Class Track (1); Class Athletic Board (1); Collegian Board (1, 2, 3); Manager Musical Clubs (3); Secretary-Treasurer Agricultural Economics Club (3); Editor 1919 Index; Class Secretary (3); Non-Athletic Board (3); Junior Prom Committee.

The fact that "Myrt" is our editor-in-chief and chief high muck-a-muck of the censors makes his write-up a delicate matter. The above mentioned fact is proof enough of his abilities, and if any more is needed we need only say that he is Manager of our blooming glee club. The motto is well chosen, "tis true, 'tis pity," but "Myrt" is fickle. You can't find him playing opposite the same lead in more than two Kodak film records of his summer's career—that's it, career. Still we must admit that he has good taste.

Ambrose Clement Faurel

"HAM"

"Aneuf is too much, said Faneuf"

West Warren

Chem Lab

Warren High School

November 23, 1897; Chemistry; Commons Club.

"Ham" is the would-be chemist from wild and woolly West Warren. He should be a millionaire when he leaves us for other climes, from the jobs he holds down on the campus. A faithful member of the home guard in his under class days, as a junior he is even making mysterious visits to nearby cities several nights a week; mysterious, for he never is seen looking at the fair sex with other than the disinterested eye. He should shine with the sulphuric acid bottle, and we shall soon hear of him as the great analyst.

Robert Pierre Farrington

"BOB"

"Give him credit, he is self-made.

And he adores his maker."

Philadelphia, Pa.

1 North College

Mechanic Arts High School

September 24, 1896; Agronomy; Manager Class Baseball (1); Stockbridge Club (2, 3).

Here we have the Quaker City's offering. Our dispenser of the daily newspapers has already decided to accept "Sid" Haskell's position, as soon as he earns his sheepskin. Though an agronomist of note, physics is his delight. This youngster with the educated feet has a perfect batting average in the Windsor league, where his blue eyes coupled with a tall form have broken many a feminine heart. He "summers" down in the antioch island of Nantucket, "the Paradise of America." "Bob's" Paradise has always been walking, or riding behind the "old roan mare."

Paul Faxon

"P. FAXON"

"Of Heaven or Hell, I have no power to sing"

Wellesley Hills

House

Newton High School

March 12, 1898; Pomology; Class Football (1, 3); Manager Class Football (2); Class Relay (1, 2); Class Baseball (1); Class Athletic Board (1, 2); Senate (3); Class Vice-President (2); Class President (3); Vice-President Pomology Club (3); Index Board (3).

When one is looking for the pep in 1919, "P. Faxon" is always brought to mind. Paul has helped boost along most every class enterprise for the benefit of '19, and now he is "Prexey." Football, baseball, track and hockey are a few of the roles he has starred in. One thing Paul likes is to be called "Tow-head," for then every one thinks he hails from the land of the midnight sun (in this case Wellesley Hills). Studying physics didn't hurt his desire to be out of doors, so he is at present an embryo pomologist, striving to help solve the rural problem.

Samuel Boynton Ferris

"SAM"

"Love me, love my dog."

New Milford, Conn. 11 North College
New Milford High School

November 23, 1896; General Agriculture, A T P; Le Cercle Francais; Six-Man Rope Pull (2) Business Manager Squib (2, 3); Collegian Board (2, 3); Interfraternity Conference (3); Index Board; Animal Husbandry Club.

"Sam" is supposed to be living at 11 North, but is seldom at home. He can usually be found on the streets of Holyoke, Northampton or Amherst drumming up trade and ads for the various Aggie publications, and he gets the goods. "Sam" is also well known to many of the brakemen along the Great Northern, having been seen there occasionally alighting from side-door Pullmans. "Sam" says, however, that the hobo's life in North Dakota has nothing on rooming in North College. He is the proprietor of that "Hound of the Baskerville's" which has recently come among us.

Wilbert Daniel Field

"GOVERNOR"

"He strikes no coin, 'tis true, but coins new phrases."

Somerville 29 McClellan Street
Berkeley Preparatory School

March 19, 1891; Poultry; Index Board; Smoker Committee (3).

"Husky" Bill has become the pride of our heart. For two years he was chiefly famous for his widely advertised ability to juggle trunks for the American Ex. This year, however, he has blossomed out as our best little humorist, and his dry sallies are much appreciated wherever 1919 men foregather. The best thing Bill did this year was to take a prominent part on our first smoker committee, and to his efforts and ideas are mainly traceable the great success of that first service in worship of "the great god Nick O' Teen."

Herne Allen Fogg

"MISTY"

*"I have ever loved to repose myself
With my heels as high or higher than my head."*

Topsfield 73 Pleasant Street
Topsfield High School

May 18, 1897; Agricultural Economics; Class Track (2, 3); Orchestra (3); Agricultural Economics Club (3).

It seems paradoxical that fog should originate in the hills of New Hampshire and gravitate to the North Shore, but such is the case with this particular Fogg. Finally a stiff sea breeze blew him up to M. A. C. and thus far not even the cold north wind of this section has been able to dislodge him from the Connecticut Valley. However, during his first two years here his nature carried him to such extremes that his folks deemed it wise to send his brother along to stabilize him. When he drifts from this valley we expect him to settle down, as real fogs do, only to rise in a short time to ethereal realms of success.

Willard Kyte French

"Bill"

"None but himself can be his parallel"

Worcester

Q. T. V. House

Worcester Classical High School

February 15, 1897; Pomology; Q. T. V.; Class Track (2); Pomology Club (3); Index Board (3).

"Bill" came to M. A. C. to find himself, and he has surely succeeded. Algebra, zoo and physics were consumed by him as mere college ices, of which he is very fond. He is not officially an athlete, but has broken many records, by jumping from bed at 7.35 in the morning, and landing in the classroom five minutes later, having dressed, breakfasted and traveled a mile in the meantime. He receives voluminous letters quite regularly, so we think he has found his affinity to assist him in his life work—the promotion of the apple industry.

Earl Augustus Garde

"Guard thy lips as they were palace doors,

The king within.

Tranquil, fair, and courteous be all words

That from that presence win."

Lynn

30 North Prospect Street

Lynn English High School

December 10, 1896; Poultry; C. C.

Garde is living up to his name, for not only is he an R. O. T. C. man, but he guards his speech, too. He tiptoed onto the campus when no one was looking, and ever since has been doing his best not to interrupt college proceedings. His supermodest nature has, however, allowed him to become a bugler, and everyone mentally blesses him at least three times a week, when he blows "Retreat."

Mary Ellen Monica Garvey

"Sweet lips whereon perpetually did reign

The summer calm of golden charity."

Amherst

27 South Prospect Street

Amherst High School

March 3, 1896; Chemistry.

Mary is one of those prodigies of the co-ed world who actually seems to like chemistry. In fact, she chose it for her major. And as if this were not enough to set her off on a pedestal to be admired, but not comprehended, she went to work and elected a course with "Billy"; and what is more, she got away with it. Mary is as industrious as she is conscientious, for she spends most of her spare time in the old Chem Lab. You might not think it, but she can be quite vivacious when there are no "horrid boys" about.

William Francis Glavin

"BILL"

"Even though vanquished he can argue still."
Wenham 15 North College
Beverly High School

April 19, 1897; Agriculture;  $\Sigma \Phi E$ ; Six-Man Rope Pull (1).

"Bill" Glavin, Dr. Arthur Duffey's understudy, is only too pleased to share his wealth of sporting knowledge with anyone who will listen. Upon leaving Wenham, "Bill" has assumed modern ideas of living and is intending upon graduation to return to his home land and impart his knowledge of civilization to the remainder of his powerful tribe. In spite of this disadvantage "Bill" has many sterling qualities. He is a real student, as well as a participant and hard worker in many of our campus activities. In the opinion of his friends, "Bill" is in line to succeed General Pershing, for "Bill" enlisted in the R. O. T. C. This act is enough to signify his success for the future.

*Howard Mason Goff

"KID"

"There is safety in numbers"

Cambridge  $\Phi \Sigma K$  House
Everett High School

December 1, 1894; Chemistry;  $\Phi \Sigma K$ ; Freshman Rifle Team; Class Track (1, 2, 3); Glee Club (1, 2, 3); Glee Club Leader (3); Informal Committee (3); Cross Country (1).

"Kid" jumped into M. A. C. in a quiet sort of way, but it wasn't long before we all knew "Kid" and his funny noises. There is a mystery about "Kid." His heart seems to be drawn in two directions, Newton and Northampton, and judging by the number of letters he gets from both, there seems to be quite a question which of the two fair maidens will finally win. We are all anxiously awaiting the result, for we want the two-miler and leader of the Glee Club to live happily ever after.

Lynn Green

"CHLOROPHYLL"

*"He gaz'd, he wish'd,
He fear'd, he blush'd
And trembled where he stood."*

Schenevus, N. Y. 6 Nutting Avenue
Cooperstown High School

July 21, 1896; Animal Husbandry; Commons Club.

Chlorophyll—coloring matter present in plants—and in this protoplasmic combination of cells, 1919 was well remembered. How and why this name was bestowed will be remembered by all Botany 25ers. Nevertheless, we must admit Lynn is a quiet, industrious worker of the class, having in mind those things which come first, and striving for them in candlelight. To broaden his education, he skips across the river to learn something of the "gentler sex." Lynn has elected agriculture and expects to return to his boyhood surroundings to have surveillance over part of the township. We certainly wish him a prosperous future!

Emil Frederick Guba

"DUTCH"

"Work, for the finals are coming"

New Bedford

Clark Hall

New Bedford High School

May 13, 1897; Botany; C. C.; Index Board.

Emil is certainly an ideal youth; no bad habits at all, as far as we can observe. In fact, we have heard it said that he was never known to go visiting over the mountain or in Hamp. and stay so late that he missed the last car. Still, the time that he doesn't put in there, or holding a house-party with a broom in Clark, is applied to studies, witness his success in that line. His major is Botany and judging from his application in college we may safely predict the best of success in his career.

Ethel Lobett Harris

"LOVIE"

"With more than Love's Good-will"

Beverly

Beverly High School

Draper Hall

October 17, 1897; Pomology; A Φ Γ.

Of all the Aggies that ever hailed from Beverly, "Ethel Love" is certainly the most ardent. Although her heart and good will are centered in M. A. C., nevertheless we suspect there may be other receiving stations. Just at present, she is learning how to run her Dad's farm in New Hampshire. To tell the truth, though, we never worry about "Love" having a nervous breakdown from over-study; but we do feel quite confident that if she puts as much "pep" into the project as she has always exhibited at college, her success is assured.

Richard Raymond Hartwell

"Dick"

"And a woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a Smoke"

Springfield

Colonial Inn

Springfield Technical High School

November 1, 1896; Pomology; Interclass Track (3).

"Dick" saw the first glimmer of lux benigna in that western Massachusetts Mecca, Springfield. From his earliest youth his chief plaything was a pipe, and as is usual with children's toys, it soon found its way into his mouth. To date he has been unable to take it out. Aside from this, he has no bad habits, except an inherent craving for "Ma" Goodwin's apple pie, and a strong inclination to attend every musical show that comes to Springfield. But despite his failings and his continual "crabbing" we manage to worry along pretty well with "Dick."

Louis Prase Hastings

"LOUIE"

"How fair to look upon is he."

Springfield

K Σ House

Springfield Technical High School

September 26, 1896; Microbiology; K Σ; Dramatics (1, 2, 3); Glee Club (1, 2, 3); Quartet (3).

This is the young cherub who bribes a doctor to certify that he has that childhood malady, the mumps. So extremely youthful is "Lewie" (as he hates to be called) that he is continually mistaken for a freshman, or a visiting younger brother. He has been the charming leading lady of the Roister Doisters in several plays, and as such has won the hearts of many, even the stage hands, who were in the secret. This is quite an achievement, but in addition he has "gotten away with murder" in his studies, for in spite of his apparent youth, his only worry is whether or not he will get out of all the finals.

Benjamin Earl Hodgson

"BEN"

"But 'twas a maxim he had often tried

That right was right, and this he would abide."

Methuen

M. A. C. Farmhouse

Phillips Andover Academy

April 25, 1888; Agricultural Education; Commons Club.

"Ben's" great ambition was to go to college. But here "Ben's" plans were delayed by losing complete use of his eyes, which necessitated leaving school early. It was not for ten years that "Ben" was able to prepare for college. It will be with a feeling of safety and gratification that we will send our rising generation to the future Professor Hodgson, for under the guidance of Professor Hart, and others, "Ben" will soon rank among the first of the agricultural educationalists.

George Randolph Lawrence Hopkins

"HOR"

"Still waters run deep."

Orleans

101 Pleasant Street

Orleans High School

March 4, 1898; Forestry; Commons Club.

As a freshman, Hopkins never even looked at the girls, but we hear that he has reformed. He has even obtained for himself the job of janitor in the co-eds' gym! However, he is still a studious fellow; he is right there on the math, but he begs to be excused when it comes to Public Speaking. He does not follow the crowd or he never would have majored in forestry. We suspect he has aspirations of the reformation of Cape Cod.

Ralph Thomas Hour

"SHRIMP"

"Now that I have become a man I have put away childish ways"

Melrose Highlands 120 Pleasant Street
Melrose High School

June 29, 1897; Pomology; Class Track (3); Pomology Club (3); Index Board (3).

Our "Shrimp"! He's the man who has a smile on his face when he laughs. When we see him in his characteristic pose—standing with his head cocked on one side, one eye closed, and his lower jaw hanging down—we wonder why the "hr" was slipped into his nickname. "Shrimp" isn't a football warrior or a debater, but he is there when it comes to high marks, and he sure can bang on the typewriter.

*Harold Clayton Hunter

"A dashing boy, but not a sprinter"

South Hadley Falls 9 North College
South Hadley High School

May 20, 1896; Floriculture; A S Φ; Mandolin Club (3); Floriculture Club.

We realize that we missed a good deal by not having "Har" with us during our Freshman year. Realizing that he should do something more beneficial to society he decided to leave Colgate University and come to M. A. C., where he could study Floriculture. About the campus, if you hear a big noise, you may expect Hunter is the source. Although he sometimes afflicts us with some terrible puns, he has made many friends. The hardest thing he had to do was to keep silent during his initiation into A S Φ.

Charles Henry Jewell

"Many a jewel sparkles unseen"

Merrimac M. A. C. Farm House
Merrimac High School

October 21, 1897; Chemistry; C. C.

One of the many presents which the college received in the fall of 1915 was a jewel. The giver was the town of Merrimac, after which the Merrimac River was named, according to Jewell. We are sure that she will not regret her action when he returns laden with chemical fruit. Charles is one of those quiet fellows that store away a lot of knowledge without making a fuss about it. We predict a great future for him, in spite of the fact that he is a regular church goer, and shuns both girls and cards.

Laurence Wilhelm Johnson

"LARRY"

"Labour is its own reward."

*"Come, Willistonians, and you shall hear
Of one of truly great career."*

Avon

A Σ Φ House

Williston Seminary

August 11, 1892; Pomology; A Σ Φ; Class Football (1); Interfraternity Conference (3).

Quiet, unassuming and modest, yet his presence is always felt. A prodigy in the truest sense of the word, for with age comes wisdom. His favorite occupation about campus is getting out of finals. So steady is he, that, were the campus clock to stop, one could set his watch by "Larry." Although he claims immunity from Dan Cupid's darts, yet, still waters run deep. Future students of Pomology will, in all probability, be found poring over "Johnson's Commercial Orcharding."

Sidney Clarence Johnson

"SID"

"Al ful of fresshe floures, whyte and rede, Singing he was, or floytinge al the day."

Gloucester

7 South College

Gloucester High School

November 19, 1894; Dairying; A Γ P; Band (1, 2, 3);
Orchestra (1, 2, 3); Class Football (3).

In this blond young man with the highly cultivated appearance and distinctively individual sunny disposition and grin, we have 165 pounds of good nature, and an example of steady diet, for "Sid" believes in cod liver oil and "bummed" makings. Johnny's strongest asset is his good looks and social popularity (don't crowd girls, please), but he can pass as a good musician, too. If the old draft doesn't get "Sid," he is perhaps going to get a job upon graduation; preferably as bell-hop in a "fish and glue" town summer hotel. May Satan use you well, Sid.

Raymond Douglas Jordan

"RAY"

"Come what may, I'll do my darnedest"

Springfield

9 South College

Springfield Central High School

June 8, 1894; Pomology; Pomology Club (3).

"Ray" is apparently a quiet fellow, but really as good a rough-houser as can be had. He began his career here at Aggie when the Sophs dressed him up as a co-ed in the night-shirt parade. He made his slip when, instead of continuing the study of Poultry, he tackled Pomology. As a "gut" course, he is taking zoology. The amoeba that "Doc" expected us to see must have become too apparent for this husky youth from Springfield; still he fooled "Billie," and there is one more vacant chair in the "amen" row.

Priscilla Knowlton

"Modest and simple and sweet, the very type of Priscilla"

Roxbury

87 Pleasant Street

Girls' Latin School

October 5, 1898; General Agriculture; Δ Φ Γ.

Priscilla is always rushing and just a little bit late to everything. It was in this same characteristic manner that she joined our ranks. Nevertheless, she has since caught up, and, we fear, forged ahead of most of us. Yes, Radcliffe was a heavy loser when Priscilla came to us last year. In general she holds herself aloof from the masculine element of the college, but now and then she condescends to favor some waiting youth with a smile. Not that he deserves it at all, but what's the use of being too severe on 'em?

*Frank Edward Knight

"SILENT"

"Silent Knight, Holy Knight"

Brimfield

3 North College

Hitchcock Free Academy

September 4, 1893; Pomology; Pom Club (3); R. O. T. C.

Stepping mysteriously from no one knows where, Knight truly is "silent" (except when he walks). He goes about his business more absorbed than the usual student, for depth is his virtue. Training to be one of Uncle Sam's future officers, he stands out always as the perfect soldier (?). However, he knows the secret of getting his studies, concentrating himself to the extent that even an explosion does not wake him up. Such were the rude ways of Freshman friends (?).

Anna Lieberman

"And laughter holding both his sides.

Come and trip it as you go

On the light fantastic toe."

Dorchester

Dorchester High School

Draper Hall

November 8, 1898; Chemistry; Δ Φ Γ; Index Board.

Anna is a chemist, and the profs say "a corking good one." She is enthusiastic about her major and we predict a great future for her in chemical research and food analysis. However, the science of chemistry is not big enough to absorb all her enthusiasm, and we consequently find her running a dancing class at Draper, or entertaining with yodels and Dutch songs, between times. At Peterboro this summer, she was having a bad time trying to raise ducks, aided by a college pamphlet on "How to raise chickens." Nevertheless we give her credit for an uncommon amount of common sense.

*Elton Jessup Mansell

"SONNY"

"Hold me in the image of Kid Gore and I'll be satisfied."

Cambridge Φ Σ K House

Arlington High School

1895; Animal Husbandry; Φ Σ K; Class Football (1, 3); Class Hockey (1, 2); Class Baseball (1).

Now you see him and now you don't. That's about the way it is with "Sonny," for we never know what is coming next. His athletic tendency put him right with "Kid" Gore, but incidentally put him out with the Registrar. It appears "Sonny" has taken the "Kid" for his "beau ideal," and he was a good one to have. You can hardly say "Sonny" came here to be near Smith and Mt. Holyoke, for if we were all as monkish as he what would the poor girls do?

William Mather

"Censor me not for my faults, but for my wisdom."

Stand Grammar School West Experiment Station

January 14, 1898; Chemistry.

This hard-working son of old Massachusetts has given us little opportunity to really know him, but those of us who do have found all that can be asked for in a man. Any one hearing him speaking of H-aitch<sub>2</sub>SO<sub>4</sub> and H-aitch<sub>2</sub>O has little trouble in realizing that he is a good old son of Britain. However, Mather is one of our real students and we all know that when he lands his final job, it will be a top-notch.

Charles Gordon Mattoon

"DUFF"

"How pregnant sometimes his replies are"

Pittsfield 16 South College

Pittsfield High School

November 27, 1896; Animal Husbandry; Σ Φ E; Class Rifle (1, 2); Manager Class Track (2, 3); Manager Varsity Track (3); Animal Husbandry Club (3); Junior Smoker Committee (3); Index Board.

"Duff" is a vegetative growth of Pittsfield. From the above list you would never guess that modesty is the blight on his young life, but as "Duff" himself says, "You can't keep a good man down." He believes firmly in "Train up a child . . ."; and they know him in Suffield, Conn., as the man who can do without sleep. If explosions be heard near "South," judge ye that Mattoon playeth a quiet game of cribbage, and we invite all the sorrowful to come in, for "Duff" is death on gloom. However, if you want anything done "See Mattoon." To see Mattoon, first look for a pipe; "Duff" will probably be immediately in rear thereof.

Arthur Martin McCarthy

"Mac"

"Modesty is a virtue"

Monson

Q. T. V. House

Monson Academy

February 10, 1897; Animal Husbandry; Q. T. V.; Animal Husbandry Club (3); Orchestra (1); Band (1, 2); Captain Class Baseball (1); Class Basketball (1, 2); Varsity Basketball (2, 3); Varsity Baseball (2); Secretary Catholic Club (2); Class Treasurer (2, 3).

Arthur was brought up in Monson and "prepped" at the local academy. For these reasons he never knew that an outside world existed until the year 1915, when he shook "Pa" French for a blond, and came to Aggie with the ambition to make good in athletics under the direction of the aforementioned blond. In the winter Mac does a little studying and plays a lot of basketball. In the summer his attention is divided between moonlight and market-gardening. His faults are a minus quantity, and he possesses the virtue of practising what he preaches.

Kenneth Le Roy Messenger

"KEN"

"The Original Optimist."

Winsted, Conn.

Gilbert School

K Σ House

1892; Landscape; K Σ.

"Mes" certainly lives up to his reputation as an optimist, and sees the silver lining in every dark cloud. Our friend also likes the girls, strange as it may seem, and is often seen wending his way "over the mountain" or "over the river—and thru the woods," as the spirit moves him. He has also been seen at Draper. When not busy in campus activities he studies landscape gardening and after being graduated expects to go into the business of beautifying our country sides.

Elmer Joshua Morton

"Josh"

"I know a thing or two,
You bet your neck I do,
My name's Joshway Ebenezer Spry."

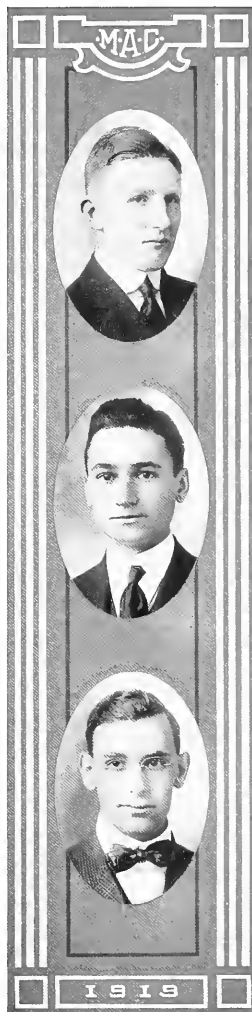

Watertown

Waltham High School

Vet. Lab.

October 24, 1896; Dairying; Commons Club; Musical Clubs (1); Dramatics (1); R. O. T. C.

At twilight on October 24, 1896, the population of Manchester, N. H., was substantially increased by the advent of the Honorable Joshua Elmer Morton. For some unknown reason, Waltham, Mass., was selected as the place of his intellectual culture. After graduating from Waltham High, he entered our noble ranks at M. A. C. During his college career, Josh has attracted considerable attention as a frequent visitor to the east part of Amherst. He, being musically inclined, we are of the opinion that there is a place awaiting him among the favored minstrels on high.

*Douglas Tracy Newbold

"Doug"

"He cursed and swore and tore his hair, but nothing did avail."

Northampton

16 South College

Mt. Hermon School

June 6, 1897; Animal Husbandry; Σ Φ Ε; Freshman Debating; Varsity Debating (2); Soph 60-Man Rope Pull (2); Roister Doisters (1, 2); R. O. T. C. (3); Animal Husbandry Club (3); Freshman Show (1); Vaudeville (2); Index Board.

After travelling around for the early part of his life, "Doug" finally settled in Northampton. From there we received this prodigy. "Doug" is always one of the liveliest participants in any noise or excitement going on in the dorms. He tries to make us believe that the opposite sex has no charms for him, but we know differently. Among his many accomplishments, he "hath a silver tongue," is no mean actor, and has a good line. He is modest and unassuming almost to a fault. This is no doubt due to his early training at Mt. Hermon. He is characterized by his two-story forehead, upstanding hair, and gentle tone of voice.

*Joseph Ernest O'Hara

"Joe"

"Any old port in a storm"

Worcester

8 Kellogg Avenue

Worcester Classical High School

January 19, 1897; Agricultural Economics.

"O" commonly stands for a life sized "goose egg," but when this character is associated with the class of 1919, it stands for O'Hara. Joe hails from the big wire city, and although he is scarcely seen about the campus, he certainly is a live wire in everything he undertakes. Joe has no worries; he takes things as they come. He spends some of his time in arranging occasional dances and sleigh rides with a choice few of the "town talent," this being his chief occupation, outside of fooling the profs.

Robert Warren Parke

"Bob"

"When I'm right, the world is wrong"

Winchendon

1 Allen Street

Murdock School

June 4, 1897; Agricultural Economics; Commons Club.

Bob is a native of the big toy town. After a year at college, he was imbued with a militaristic spirit and attended a camp at Plattsburg. He has always been a good student, but never believed in taxing his memory too much before an exam. Nevertheless, he is still with us, and at present has aspirations for running a large stock farm in New Hampshire. But in order to undertake such a proposition, one must have a wife. Probably this accounts for the serious expression on Bob's face.

Raymond Thurston Parkhurst

"RAYMIE"

"All arm'd I ride, whate'er betide Until I find the Holy Grail."

Fitchburg

"Raymie's" strong determination to win has brought him before many obstacles. Yet by what he has shown during his period here we are sure that he will make good. There seems to be a systematic method in his madness. It is lucky for him that we know his major is Poultry, for among numerous other places, we have seen him down among the poultry houses, preparing himself to judge chickens. He has never had this experience, so watch out for him, ye men of Fitchburg and greet him as your future chicken inspector.

Edward Field Parsons

"NED"

"I never knew so young a body with so old a head"

North Amherst

Amherst High School

November 25, 1897; Microbiology; Q. T. V.; Class Track (1); Varsity Rifle (1, 2); Debating Club; Burnham Eight (1).

Ned is one of our commuters, making the trip down from North Amherst each morning and returning in the afternoon by means of his "trusty mount." As a result of his speedy transportation he generally sports a red nose, and may frequently be seen thawing out his hands. He is an energetic worker and usually accomplishes that which he sets out to do, whether it be studies, shooting or music. Most of his spare time is spent prone in the Drill Hall popping away at targets. Ned is majoring in Micro, he is also wearer of an "rMt." It follows then that his slogan is to "Clean up the Germs and the Germans."

George Newberry Perk

"G. N."

"All voice and nothing else"

Granville

9 South College

Hartford High School

December 21, 1896; Rural Sociology; Commons Club; Class Rifle (2); Glee Club (1, 2, 3); R. O. T. C. (3).

"G. N." hails from the fair city of Hartford, Conn. While living there he ran the Public Library, so after being in college a year, he decided that the M. A. C. library needed his valuable assistance. Mr. Green took him in at once since he, too, came from Hartford. His duties are to see that each book is in its place, a task which requires a great deal of brain work. Although he is a librarian, George helps the college by lending his voice to the Glee Club, and for three years he has been a member of this organization.

Henry Byron Peirson

New Bedford K Σ House

Haverhill High School

The curtain, boys, and let me show you the largest amount of pep and optimism ever put in one small package. What Henry hasn't done for interclass tennis is not worth mentioning. He never gets discouraged no matter how many times it rains after he spends all the afternoon fixing the courts. This summer he was a "bugologist" and he has now decided that Doc Fernald cannot do without him, so is majoring in this subject, he will no doubt find a new blister on trees caused by water boiling in the hot sun.

Errol Clinton Perry

"Industry is the soul of business and the keystone of prosperity."

Acushnet 15 Hallock Street

Fairhaven High School

December 9, 1896; Agricultural Economics.

If the crisp morning air will sharpen the wit, then we can account for the radiant glow which surrounds Perry. When going to high school he had to bicycle five miles, and at Amherst as a Hallock Streeter, the brisk morning walk to the campus certainly filed his wit to the sharpest point. It is hard work to put one over on Perry. His power of digestion is nearly to infinity, for he has devoured a great many books and has even survived old Taussig. In his quiet way he is prepared to try and solve the economic problems of the day.

*LeRoy Duane Peterson

"PETE"

"Shows most true mettle when his course is checked."

Brooklyn, N. Y. 85 Pleasant Street

Greenfield High School

November 30, 1896; Pomology; Class Baseball (1); Class Basketball (2); Class Football (2, 3).

On a bright autumn morning in '96, "Pete" first made his appearance on this terrestrial ball. Then nothing was heard of him until he signed the Aggie register—LeRoy Duane Peterson, Brooklyn, N. Y., whereupon the sage said, "Let college start, for here is one who will be king." Such has "Pete" shown himself to the class in baseball, football and basketball. He is also an artist at waxtreading and can sometimes be seen executing this art at the Informals. Occasionally, on a moonlight night he is seen drifting "over the river." In choosing Pom. as his major, "Pete" will be at his best, for he has always been a high climber.

Frederick Trumbidge Pierpont

"The Scepter, Learning, Physic, must All follow this, and come to dust."

Stamford, Conn. 18 Nutting Avenue
Milwaukee High School

November 23, 1896; General Agriculture; Index Board.

It is rumored that this young specimen of manhood often forgets to go to bed at night. This may account for his somewhat somnolent attitude in the morning. Athletically the most strenuous thing he ever did was to get up in time for breakfast. True, he will never make a farmer or a chemist, but we predict he will become a learned professor some day.

Karl Julius Prér

*"CHARLIE GREEN, 2ND."
"What's in a name?"*

Brookline 4 X House
Brookline High School

October 25, 1896; Pomology; 4 X; Interfraternity Relay (2); Class Track (3).

One of the "sine qua non" of Mr. Green's assistant staff, Karl has proved himself an able product of the Brookline Public Library, where he served his time before he entered M. A. C.'s portals of learning. Ever ready to help the poor "frosh" to delve into the mysteries of the English Department's assigned work in the library, he has earned for himself the grateful thanks of many a green freshman. Though "Charlie the 2nd" has not as yet broken any records in track events, his one aim is to do so before he graduates.

Marion Gertrude Pulley

"PETE"

"Then came quick Wit and Conversation."

Melrose 2 Allen Street
Melrose High School

November 14, 1898; Poultry; Δ Φ Γ.

Marion, better known to some of us as "Peter," has a burning desire to become acquainted with every inch of Aggie ground before taking her place among the alumnae. She finds great pleasure in roaming through the woods behind Stockbridge Hall looking for the prehistoric animals which, she feels certain, must abide there. "Peter" is extremely partial to feathered creatures and cherishes fond hopes of owning a poultry plant of her own some day in the future. We sincerely hope that her longings will be satisfied and that the success which her perseverance merits may be achieved.

Julian Stuart Rea

"JUDY"

"To grow wise is to grow happy."

Weymouth 15 Boston Street
Weymouth High School

July 14, 1898; Agricultural Education; Commons Club.

"Ray" is eminently "respectable," and actually takes his college education as a serious proposition. We sometimes almost suspect that he really takes pleasure in devouring huge hunks of knowledge. Rare spirit of studious inquiry, if thou could'st but seize us at all times, and save that enormous waste of "dean's board" paper! "Ray" doesn't say a whole lot but we notice that he gets there. The energy most of us waste in talking, he puts to practical use. His is, however, a skeptical turn of mind; he never takes anything on faith—"you've got to show me," is his maxim.

*Harold Jordan Record

"REC"

"I'd have had a better time if I'd had a girl."

West Boylston 73 Pleasant Street
Worcester Classical High School

March 22, 1895; Agricultural Economics, A  $\Sigma$  A (Clark); Glee Club (2).

During his life "Rec" has achieved two things: he put West Boylston on the map, and got into the good graces of the co-eds. Clark College claims the honor of discovering him, but he transferred his allegiance to M. A. C. in the middle of his freshman year. So far the greatest ambition we have unearthed is to graduate, which we know he will do with a good record. In the summers he devoted his spare time to trying to show children how to make a living from a two-by-four garden plot.

*Donald Ross

"DINNY"

"Strains of music burst upon the air."

Boston  $\Phi \Sigma \kappa$  House
Arlington High School

April 13, 1897; Animal Husbandry;  $\Phi \Sigma \kappa$ ; Class Football (1); Class Hockey (1, 2); Class President (1); Varsity Hockey (2).

Straight from Arlington comes this tall, husky youth to learn the art of stock judging, that he may some day be buyer for Swift & Co. If he fails in this attempt, a little secluded farm down in Nova Scotia will suit him best, where for six months a year he can teach his little "Dinnys" how to play hockey like Rosses, and we pity the little Scots that get up against them. "Dinny" loves music. He can manipulate a clarinet or saxophone most skillfully, and it is rumored that the Victor Company is soon to announce some of his latest compositions.

*Clifford Altou Rowe

"CLIFF"

"One loves me for my own true worth."

East Orange, N. J.  $\Phi \Sigma \Sigma$  K House
East Orange High School

March 26, 1897; Animal Husbandry;  $\Phi \Sigma \Sigma$  K; Glee Club

In the fall of 1915 the ranks of 1919 men were swelled by the addition of "Cliff." A product of the plains of New Jersey, he soon became at home in the heart of—the Connecticut River Valley. "Cliff" is a firm believer in college life and co-education; informals, senior shows, etc., receiving his hearty support. He is one of the few who really appreciate the efforts of the Grounds Department in the ravine. His chief object here seems to be to become a general in the Aggie army, and to spread terror in the hearts of even classmates on the tennis court.

Helen Aramintha Sibley

"MINTY"

"Here is metal more attractive."

Longmeadow Draper Hall
Springfield Technical High School

February 19, 1897; Floriculture;  $\Delta \Phi \Gamma$ ; Class Secretary

Here's "Minty," one of that prominent co-ed party who calls themselves the three-thirds. To all she is friendly, but to one——! "Minty" has decided to work with flowers, and we think she is going to succeed. Whether she undertakes gardening on a commercial scale, or just beautifying the ground about the little white home where lives "the dearest little mother in the world," we believe that Helen's own house will not fall, for it will be built on the firm foundation of a certain cliff. We call Helen a good sport, a successful student, and a loyal sister of '19.

*Walter Harriman Sargent

"SARGE"

"Folks rarely understand us hermits."

Malden 4 Chestnut Street
Malden High School

May 24, 1895; Agricultural Economics; Commons Club.

"Sarge" came to Aggie to find the solution of the great Southern problem, intending to return to his native hearth and "show 'em" how folks do it "up North." Time makes many changes, however, and he now claims to have at least solved the problem of: "How two can live cheaper than one." This task solved, he has delayed putting it into practice so he could sign up for Uncle Sam's high-flyers. He is due to take a "flying trip" of one kind or another before long.

*Everett Hamilton Skinner

"Bob" "SKINNY"

"Put me amongst the girls."

West Upton

K Σ House

Worcester Academy

November 24, 1895; Landscape Gardening, K Σ; Landscape Club; Class Track (1, 2); Class Tennis (1, 2, 3).

The old "Skinny"—one of the celebrated few known to the parlors of Draper Hall. However, "Skinny's" accomplishments are more numerous than one might imagine at first glimpse of this hypnotic creature from Upton. His abilities in track and tennis have often called applause from the sidelines while his real ever-ready smile will always be remembered—especially by the "chosen few." Skinner is said to be well known in drawing courses and could we wish him more than that he be successful in the courses he draws.

Wendell Frederick Smith

"Ducky"

"He aspires unto goodly things."

Troy, N. Y.

66 Pleasant Street

Troy High School

February 20, 1898; Pomology; Commons Club; Class Tennis (2, 3); Mandolin Club (3); Pomology Club; Index Board.

We are just beginning to discover what New York lost on the day when W. F. left Troy en route for Amherst. For some time he tried to conceal his abilities, but ever since he learned the manly art of self defense under his namesake, "Sic" Smith, he has had his hat in the ring. He blows off his surplus energy on the tennis courts, where he has proved a valuable man to 1919. W. F. is not averse to a little fussing on the side. In fact, a certain young lady "over the mountain" was once heard to remark that she had forgotten all about "Mr. Smith" and that only "Wendell" remains.

Harold E. Spaulding

"Ras"

"Greater men than I have lived;

But I don't believe it."

Milford

K Σ House

July 25, 1896; Entomology; K Σ; Class Tennis (1, 2, 3); President Entomology Club (3); Index Board.

Another product of Baker Place, "Ras" has gone the way of those famous men. His managerial forces came through there (for he managed to stay in college) so the "Agricultural" Inn claimed him. He still keeps up the rep by trying to manage "fussing" parties; however, somehow the girls call his bluff. Nevertheless, 'tis rumored the fair Summer school girls enjoyed the feeds at the Inn as well as the men do. But place "Ras" on the tennis court, in the army, in the front parlor, and he can keep up the perfect company front.

Irving Wagoner Stafford

"STAFF"

"Cheerfulness is the principal ingredient in the composition of health."

Fall River 6 Nutting Avenue

B. M. C. Durfee High School

November 17, 1898; Pomology; Class Rifle (2); Class Track (3); Index Board.

When Stafford donned his little green-buttoned cap with the rest of us, he started right in to satisfy his thirst for knowledge, but the thirst is still unquenched. This rather quiet chap has not happened to come before the public eye very often, even by the popular Dean's Board method. But the greatest mystery is how such a fellow with a ready smile can seem so immune to the allurements of the fair ones. We strongly suspect that all the evidence in his case has not yet come to light.

Chester Dillingham Stevens

"Doc"

"The fat man should not serious be,
But savor of wine and jollity."

Reading 120 Pleasant Street
Reading High School

June 27, 1897; General Agriculture; Commons Club.

The first thing that happened to Chester after reaching Amherst and registering at Hotel White was a nickname. "Doc" was the chosen word and he still wears it. His great failing is his appetite and his friends can usually be sure of finding a supply of first class eating apples tucked away in a suitcase under his bed. "Doc's" ambition while at college is to gain Knowledge and possibly a little extra avoirdupois; at present he is in a fair way to do both. "Doc" won't set the world on fire but he accomplishes things, and in a quiet way.

Ervin Sidney Stockwell

"SID"

"Silence is eloquent."

Sharon 81 Pleasant Street
Sharon High School

February 2, 1898; Agricultural Economics; Commons Club; Roister Doisters (1); Burnham Contest (1); Musical Clubs (2, 3); Varsity Debating (2).

Sidney is one of our boys who does not say a great deal as a rule, but loves to expend his vocal energy in oratory, an art in which he makes Daniel Webster look like an amateur. On the strength of this accomplishment he tried his hand at dramatics. His love of a good informal is greater than that for Billie's Physics. "Sid's" aristocratic bearing is only a mask behind which we find a really live wire. Those who have worked with him know him to be a consistent stickler in every job he undertakes.

Edward Strack

"Ed"

"A face that does not smile is no good."

Framingham

Clark Hall

Framingham High School

February 28, 1895; Chemistry; Commons Club; Chemistry Club.

If it is true that a face which does not smile is no good there is certainly little the matter with "Ed." He would smile, if his girl could not go to the Informal; as he smiled when he broke his hand on a sophomore's head in the famous "Battle of Sunderland." It is difficult to believe that such a smile could be so blood-thirsty. However, those who know "Ed" would say that he was just trying to massage the soph to remove his previous pains. At present the gentler side of his nature is more in evidence, especially "over the river."

Ralph Sutherland

"Husky"

"You win!"

Cambridge

A Σ Φ House

Rindge Technical School

October 20, 1897; Poultry; A Σ Φ; Glee Club (1, 2); Dramatics (1).

Thereupon the nurse turned her back, and lo and behold, we beheld in our presence, a cherub, descended from the heavens above. Looking at his rosy cheeks and blue eyes, we could easily see the reason for Adam's fall. "Husky" hails from Cambridge and during the dormant stage of his lifetime, he managed to pick up much of the worldly wisdom, precipitated upon the aura by sages of the University town. At campus activities, "Husky" is always present with his camera. The Roister Doisters and Musical Clubs have also been favored with his presence. The wiles of woman have yet to snare our Beau Brummell.

William Joseph Sweeney

"BILL, THE DUKE"

"As proper a man as ever trod upon neat leather."

Dorchester

North College

Boston English High School

May 6, 1898; Chemistry; Σ Φ Ε; Class Cross Country (1, 2); Class Rifle (1); Class Track (2, 3); Varsity Cross Country (2); Varsity Rifle (1, 2); Class Hockey (2); Class Tennis (2); Class Baseball (1).

If you had seen "Bill" flit around the track and campus, you might suppose he was flighty, but not at all, dear reader. He is the most regular of men. Each morning, punctually at 7 A. M. he rolls over, wollops his "wife," and sweetly informs him that it is time to arise. To his most intimate friends he is known as a contortionist "of parts." Aside from a few leanings toward "Carnegie" and moonlight skates in "Paradise," "Bill" is a model youth. We recommend Opportunity to take care that "Bill" does not overtake him and grab the forelock from behind.

Edmund Billings Taylor

"NED"

"Skilled in all the craft of hunters, Dressed for travel, armed for hunting."

Wollaston

Thayer Academy

August 13, 1893; Agricultural Economics; Commons Club;
Rifle Team (1).

"Ned" is a quiet, unobtrusive sort of chap who never seems to have any troubles. His studies never cause him any worry, and he took Billie's Physics simply as a matter of course, passed them, and has never given the feat another thought. His greatest pleasure is roaming the wildernesses of Pelham and Shutebury in quest of game, and he is never happier than when telling about "my new gun." "Ned" is not without his friends among the weaker sex, but they play a minor, rather than a major part in his quiet life.

Weston Cushing Thayer

"WES"

"Silence is Golden."

Hingham

South College
Hingham High School

January 13, 1897; Animal Husbandry; K T Φ; Stockbridge
Club; Animal Husbandry Club.

Modesty and quietness to the nth power are here mixed with a large amount of good nature, with the usual result. "Wes" came on the campus with '18, looked the class over, and turned to a better one. He may be seen trotting about the campus with his suitcase and with an expression of wisdom upon his features, traversing the "milky way," so to speak. Though modesty personified, "Wes" never hesitates to boost Hingham in a "Lives there a man with soul so dead" manner. Can there be some attraction there besides the scenery?

Frank DesAutels Thomas

"TOMMY"

"A small man, but bright withal."

Milford

North College
Milford High School

January 4, 1897; Poultry; Orchestra (1).

Milford claims this little man with the middle name that sounds like a freshman French class. This exponent of the two meals a day plan will have to get up to feed his hens, if not himself, when he is manager of a "feathers" farm in the near future. "Tom" is the original come-back kid, having a retort ready on the slightest provocation. English and Physics are his hobbies, and his total lack of interest in the inhabitants of neighboring towns is unexplainable, unless there is someone waiting in the jungles of Milford.

Loring Huson Tirrell

"Cy"

"Mornin' Si"

South Weymouth

Θ X House

Weymouth High School

September 28, 1896; Animal Husbandry; Θ X; Class Baseball (1); Class Football (2, 3).

"Cy" first saw the light in South Weymouth on the old farm. Naturally he took to agriculture, and entered our class with the rest of the athletes from Weymouth High School. Though it was his first attempt, everybody knows what he did in the pitcher's box for 1919. Not content with this, "Cy" made the sophomore football team. All his ability is not shown on the athletic field. He can tell you anything about cows. He was brought up with cows and he knows them from Alpha to Omega. His cheerful manner has won many friends in the class and the entire college.

*Arthur Leslie Underwood

"MIKE"

"—his conversation and knowledge have been in the female world."

Maynard

II North College

Maynard High School

1897; Chemistry; A Γ P; Class Football (3).

This youthful lad is known at home as Arthur, but here his name is "Mike." But wait—where is home? Sh! Let us whisper it—Stow. Why "Mike" ever left the wilds of Stow to study agriculture is more than we can figure out, for this man was cut out to be Ziegfeld's assistant in choosing chorus girls for the Follies. However, "Mike's" dark hair, shining eyes, and rosy cheeks match well with a white coat, so we feel quite certain that he will make good in the Chem Lab, and some day will be as big as Doc. Chamberlain.

John Vickers

"SHORTY"

"Better be small and shine, than great and cast a shadow."

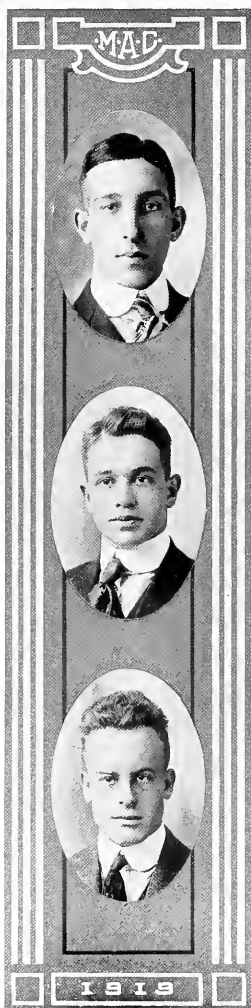

Deerfield

90 Pleasant Street

Deerfield Academy

March 22, 1895; Agricultural Economics; A Γ P; Class Basketball (2).

"Shorty" was educated up the valley at Deerfield Academy where he showed them how to play football, baseball and basketball. He kept up the same procedure when he entered Aggie. They never thought of calling him little even if he was "Shorty." Many of us remember how he used to be chased all around the drill hall floor by "Dolly" Dole or some other big beef, but his presence on the 1918 and 1919 championship basketball teams gives excellent proof that height isn't everything. John intended to make his major Animal Husbandry, but Doc Cance's literature seduced him in favor of Aggie Ec.

Marion Nichols Wells

"MADGE"

"Rover of the Underwood."

Springfield Draper Hall

Springfield Central High School

1896; Pomology;  $\Delta \Phi \Gamma$ ; Index Board.

"Madge" obeys impulses. Sometimes the whim strikes her to study, and she goes at it hard; witness the fact that she got away with the course rendered by our Professor of Physics, the first time. But at least just as often she decides to let the books go, and "start something." She usually succeeds. Marion has a fascination for the manly sport of ball. She can throw well and her one regret is that the co-eds can't have a regular team. "Madge" is majoring in Pom and in a few years expects to own a ripping good fruit farm.

Edward Asa White

"ASA"

"The world is all foolish except thee and me, and sometimes I think thee is a little queer."

Providence, R. I. 11 South College

Moses Brown School

December 6, 1896; General Agriculture; Class Treasurer (2); Class Captain (3); Class Baseball (1); Class Football (2, 3); Class Basketball (2); Index Board.

Black and White, the whitest nigger out of captivity, bewilders one with his rapid changes. He is a proud son of Prahvidence, who came to Mass. Aggie along with a motly crew from Bahston to learn of bahtony and pahmology. Although a retiring youth by nature, "Asa" has a charm of manner which makes him a shining light among the weaker sex. It is said that he has an extraordinary interest in Philadelphia for it was there that "along came Ruth." There was a time when '19 men dodged to cover behind trees and around corners for was not he the guardian of the exchequer.

*Clarence Parker Whittle, Jr.

"WHIT"

"Don't be in a hurry."

Weymouth 11 North College

Weymouth High School

1896; Chemistry;  $\Phi \Sigma K$ ; Class Football (1, 3); Class Basketball (1, 2); Varsity Football (2).

Parker is a born roughhouser. If you doubt it ask an Amherst landlord or two. He is ruthless at times, once forcing a cripple to flee without crutches. Perhaps this desire to start something is why he is '19's only football M man. His business ability has been broadened by working over his schedules trying to eradicate morning classes, afternoons after three, and Saturday classes, thus giving time for sleep. However, "Whit" has already made a start for success by convincing "the best girl" in Weymouth that he is "some boy."

Kenneth Sanderson Williams

"Doc"

"Little, but oh my!"

Sunderland

Q. T. V. House

Deerfield Academy

January 17, 1897; General Agriculture; Q. T. V.; Class Football (1, 2, 3); Class Basketball (1, 2); Class President (2).

"Doc," a product of the Sunderland silt, is built like his onions, short and thick, but his onion-like build makes him one of our best men on the football field or the basketball floor. To see the red ink on his registration card, one might suppose his thickness extended above his neck, but this is not the case, the red ink being due to an inherent antipathy for all forms of study except that of the female species. As a fun-maker, the "Doctor" is unexcelled, but he is as serious as a Physics final where the welfare of his friends is concerned. For a staunch friend, we recommend "Doc" Williams.

James Joseph Window

"Jim"

"Every one is led by his own liking."

Springfield

5 Allen Street

Lynn Classical High School

November 16, 1897; Agricultural Economics; Class Debating (1); Floriculture Yearbook (3).

The quiet, mysterious "Jim" seems to have taken up a rather seclusive and independent life as we have not heard much from him since the class debating season of our freshman year. We believe that "Jim" is one who defies the dean to the limit by making it a habit to use at least all of his cuts. However, "Jim" has the peculiarity of fully preparing his lessons, so maybe he is justified in taking advantage of the cut system.

Oliver Wiswell Wood

"Woody"

"The Iron Man."

Arlington

81 Pleasant Street

Arlington High School

July 24, 1892; Pomology; Class Football (1, 3); Varsity Football (2).

Seldom has nature brought forth a combination of qualities such as is found in "Ollie." His abilities are numerous, ranging from an acute fondness of asking questions to his dare-devil appearance on the football field. The latter has won him the name of "the pluckiest man in '19." He is even known to overlook the waxtreads, preferring to be a social magnate at Carnegie. "Woody" is a very apt conversationalist, being always prepared to advise one of the easiest access to an Amherst football game or even to Kaiser Bill. It is to be regretted that Aggie hasn't more men of his calibre.

Chester Smith Woodard

"In silence he bides his time."

Leverett

Amherst High School

November 13, 1896; Agriculture; Commons Club; Class Rifle (1, 2).

Can any good thing come out of East Leverett? The poultry family decided in the affirmative and were crowing and cackling with ecstasy and anticipation when little Chester first blinked in the light. Evidently they made a lasting impression because he still says that he prefers the feathered breed of hens and when asked point blank what he thinks of the women, he will tell you he doesn't use that kind of language. It may be said to his credit that he generally hits what he aims at, whether it be in the rifle gallery or in connection with his other undertakings.

Ray Willard Woodbury

"Woody"

"They also serve who only stand and wait."

Newburyport

Cottage Street

Newburyport High School

February 26, 1894; Floriculture; Commons Club.

The only thing that prevented Ray from being "in the army now" was the fact that the authorities had some consideration for the Germans and told him that he ought to stay on the farm. Consequently Ray must fire provisions at the American army instead of giving the Deutschers hot lead and cold steel. It is rumored that his chief difficulty this year is cutting out smoking in response to a request from a "dear friend." We feel he will succeed in this because of a perseverance that makes the Yale bull-dog look like a has-been.

Wilfred Livingstone Woodside

"Woody"

"Africa! my dear, my native soil!

For whom my warmest wish to Heaven is sent."

Ochileso, W. C. Africa 73 North Pleasant Street

Interlaken School

June 11, 1896; Agricultural Economics; Commons Club; Index Board.

1919 can thank the Kaiser that his war has prevented us from losing "Woody." Were it not for the U-boats, our mutual friend might now be "where Afric's sunny fountains roll down their golden sand." His devotion to his native soil is almost pathetic, but intimate acquaintance with him leads us to think that something besides the lure of extensive ranching is calling him. He is worth knowing, as he occasionally proves by showing us a sample of what is contained within that No. 7 hat-band. Some of us think we have travelled, but "Woody" easily holds the record for his class.

Edward Stuart Faber

"DINK"

"It's a great life, if you don't weaken."

Plainfield, N. J.

77 Pleasant Street

June 29, 1896; Agricultural Economics;  $\Theta X$ ; Class Hockey (2).

"The Dink" became embroiled with the various offices of this institution while a member of '18, and was forced to better himself by becoming one of our classmates. He seemed glad of the change, and proved his worth in last winter's hockey game against '20. Since that time Lady Nicotine has handed him a knockout, and his two dearest ambitions, to play hockey and tennis, have gone a-glimmering. "Dink" used to think he would like to become an entomologist, but now he spends his time in the College Store railing at the long hours he is going to put in at the Library for Doc. Cancé. "Dink" is a 50-50 Junior and Sophomore this year, but expects to be a full fledged Senior next fall.

NOW WITH 1920—NEXT YEAR WITH US

"Johnny's" ever present "How's the boy?" may tastefully be answered by "Yes sir, I'm fine." Although from ye small town of Newburyport, even that does not wipe away his jolly smile. There is little doubt in our minds that "Johnny" got his running ability chasing the girls at Salisbury Beach, or gathering sand fleas to start an aviation school at Aggie. All we know is that he surely has made good on the track. His most ambitious aim is the total extinction of infamous microbes. Go get 'em, John!

CLASS OF 1920

1921 Class History

Friends, faculty, fellow students.
Lend me your ears,
While I review the doings of the sophomores
And then extol them.
You all did greet not long ago
A most ungainly bunch of men,
Who did but makee you smile.
Of course, pea green, they were,
But, yet, not quite as bad as some,
For they showed grit
And took their paddling well.
Against great odds, they lost the fight
On freshman field, clad in night array.
But ne'er dismayed they came back strong;
Refused to sip the water of the pond
And stayed their ground with loss of but few feet.

In all sports against the Sophs, except one,
Was '20 beaten, but not done.
In slush and mud for minutes two
Six '20 men against six '19 pulled.
The result, great, '19's buttocks cold
And soiled from dragging on the slippery earth.

Acknowledged beaten in most athletic sports
New plays were made to gain '20 fame.
A tax was laid, seven hundred bones,
Upon our back, to finish the field
So well begun by men before.
Within a week it all was paid,
And honor duly placed where it belonged.
Finals came and went again
Some men went home, to try anew.
Winter came and '20 then.
Settled down to bone some more.
Again finals came and disappeared,
A few more left, but very few.
Then came spring and with it war,
And '20 heeded well the call.
Men went on farms and tilled the soil

Until the new year came again.
The frosh fell well before the slaughter great,
Not one of six contests could they win.
Our glory complete, we tried to work,
To learn a bit of Physics and of Zoo,
Of An Hous, of Botany, of Chemistry and French.

We must speed up, they coaked it on.
A tangled mess was on our minds, and thoughts
Of one way tickets soon mixed in.
But we worried on and did our best,
Praying some, that the wrath of the Gods,
And Demi-Gods appease somewhat and that
They reason some and give us credit,
For our hard attempts.
The term is closed and now '20 starts anew,
Realizing mistakes and vows to do her best
In the present strife.
To do her part, if possible more;
To serve full well, the need as felt,
To grit her teeth and plow through strong.
That always hereafter as heretofore,
She ne'er gave up, or stopped to snore.

FRESHMEN

Welcome to the Freshmen

You come to us, Oh Freshmen, at the time of a crisis in the existence of our college as well as our country. We have plunged ourselves into a terrible war and on each man in the United States, because of this, lies a deepened responsibility. On you, who have hardly started as yet, on the road to specialized knowledge, does not come now the brunt of the burdens of the war in its active phase, but, in time, if Democracy and Right have not conquered, this work of righting the world's wrongs will come on you. But, let us consider that as non-existent or at least in the far future. Do you realize that it is your class whose numbers are least likely, soon, to be affected? It is to you, therefore, that the whole college turns for team-work and co-operation. Other freshmen classes have been expected to do nothing in particular but learn from their friends the upperclassmen the way Aggie expects her men to conduct themselves, and the way her men show their mettle in all encounters. But you are not given this privilege. It is a common saying that the circumstances make the man and we are working under the supposition that this is true. In a time like the present, when everyone is stirred to action in brain as well as muscle, we give you added shares in the carrying on of our college work and consider you as men already rather than men in the making.

You have been denied the greater part of the college activities which unite, in the loyal spirit of Aggie men, all classes, and have been given, to replace it, the activities of the class, but notwithstanding this, it must be with a cheer for Aggie that the work goes on.

Our history is one to which hardly more than a conclusion is yet to be written; but yours has for introduction the fire of enthusiasm of an inspired age and is yet to be continued. Put into it all this inspiration and make Aggie proud of 1921!

1916 Banquet Season

This will, perhaps, be the last banquet season, and at least to all the men of 1919, it will ever remain the only one. This ancient and honorable custom of M. A. C. passed into the land of forgotten joys with a glorious victory for the class of 1919.

Throughout the year the sophs had us labelled as a "pepless" bunch, and this surprise took them completely off their feet. Since then the subject has been avoided by most of the '18 men.

The election of the class officers was held in the early spring, at the old fair grounds. It was nearly twelve o'clock on a starless night. Each man, as he came in, was required to give the password, and the election was most uncannily mysterious, as the freshmen filed by a single candle to deposit their votes.

The Banquet Season opened Saturday, the first of May. Sunday night at 12 o'clock half the class met at Leverett; the other half was to assemble at the Hadley bridge in Hamp on the following day. Most of the excitement fell to the crowd at Leverett. There were 63 who met there in a freight car. Starting about midnight and led by "Doc" Williams, they made their way for several miles across country, through sand, brush, swamps, and brooks, to a tobacco barn in the midst of the "zone." They arrived about 2.30 A. M. and remained hidden for the next twelve hours. That barn had perfect ventilation, and as the night was no summer eve, few got any sleep. In the morning, the sympathetic owner of the barn brought them some bread and coffee. This disappeared in no time, but tasted better than a banquet. A lookout was kept for sophomores, but of course they suspected nothing and were far away. Towards noon three laborers were seen coming across the field toward the barn, who, as they approached, proved to be three of the class officers who had adopted that disguise to cross the zone.

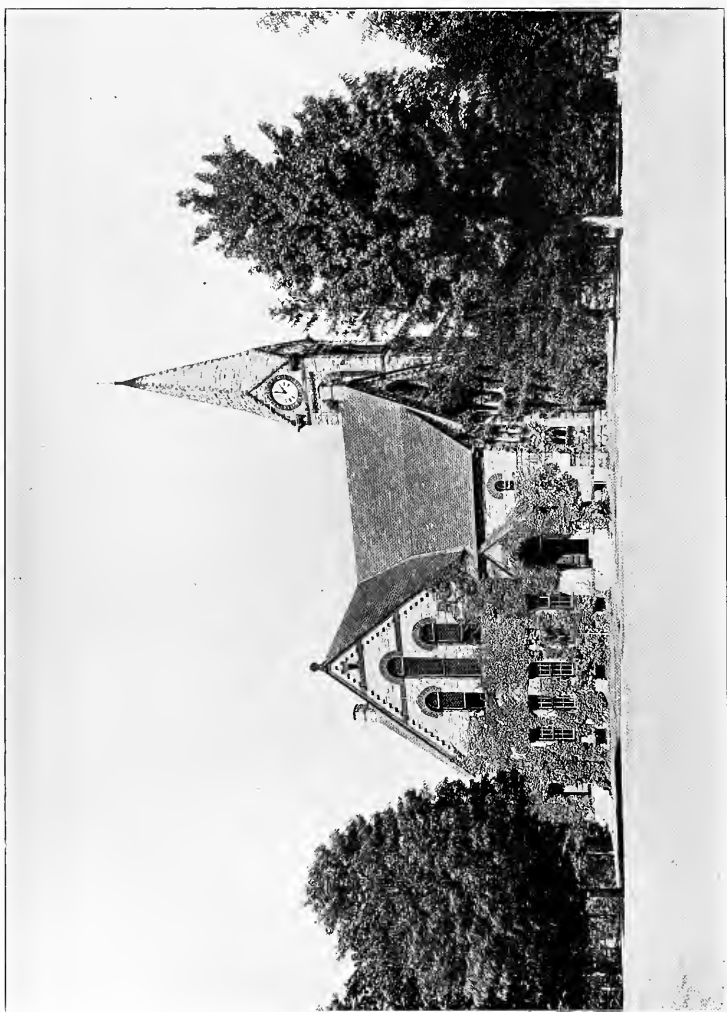

Soon after, the crowd left the barn and escorted the officers to the boundaries of the zone, and then started for Cooley's house in Sunderland, where an officer was hidden, besieged by sophomores. The fellows, after being shut up in a barn twelve hours, naturally wanted excitement. The crowd wasn't dressed for Sunday school, and would have looked well as a Roman mob. No wonder the sophomores looked on the advancing throng with fear. The sophs stood their ground, however, and soon the doorway was filled with struggling groups. In the midst of the scrap, King, the officer, ran out of the door, and picking his way through the fighting mob made his getaway. The battle was soon over, but many carried away souvenirs. Some had beautifully colored optics, others bled freely from the nose, one freshman sported two pairs of handcuffs the enemy had snapped on him, and another had broken his hand on a soph's head. The crowd then went across lots, after stopping at a farmhouse for first aid to the wounded, and to borrow a file for the handcuffs, to the railroad tracks which they followed down to Cushman.

Here they took a train and rode in style to Amherst. They walked to a place a little below the center, where they met another gang of sophomores who tried to prevent them from boarding a trolley en route to Holyoke. The freshmen were again victorious, and in due time reached Holyoke. The natives there turned to stare at the bunch as they waited for the Westfield car. They probably thought a shipload of immigrants or a gang of gunmen had arrived.

When they arrived at Westfield, they found the rest of the class, and after trying to remove some of the effects of a couple of fights and a night spent in a tobacco barn, they all sat down to the festive board about 10 P. M. The sophomores captured but one officer, Batchelder, and when they saw they were to get no more, he was allowed to go. The other officers escaped very easily.

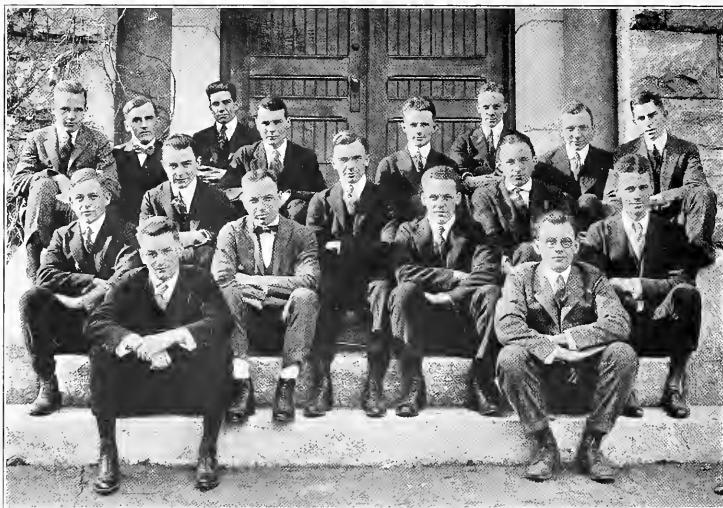

Thus the whole class was assembled at one of the greatest freshmen banquets ever held. After the banquet, at which no one held back, for most of them had not eaten for six or eight hours, Prof. Machmer gave them some good advice, and "Kid" Gore added a few words, and then the officers told their experiences of the past few days.

The freshmen started back to Amherst in two special cars at 1 o'clock. It was a happy, but somewhat sleepy bunch, that arrived in Amherst at half past three that May morning.

VARSITY RELAY TEAM—1917

A six game schedule was played and four of these resulted in victories. Three of the games were played on the local floor and received enthusiastic support.

HOCKEY

The hockey team went up against a stiff schedule last winter, being opposed by Yale, Dartmouth, Williams, M. I. T., Springfield, and West Point. Three wins, two ties, and three defeats were the result of the season's work. There were few veterans on the team and Captain "Dave" Buttrick deserves great credit for his excellent coaching.

The M. I. T. and Williams games were played on the campus. The Williams game was played as the prom game. The team had a fine trip to West Point and defeated the soldier boys under freezing conditions. Our old rivals in Springfield received two thorough trimmings.

RELAY TEAM

The Relay team of the past winter season had a very successful season under the coaching of Lawrence Dickinson, winning two out of four races. The races lost were well run and were a credit to the team. Pratt '17 was elected captain. The remainder of the team was composed of Bainbridge '18, Clough '17, and Yesair '19. Lyons '18, Weeks '18, and Wilcox were the substitutes. Yesair, as a new candidate, did exceptionally good work.

Varsity Relay was supplemented by a very good schedule of Interfraternity Relay races, Phi Sigma Kappa winning first place in the series. On March 11, a close and exciting interclass track meet was held and two records were broken by Bell '17 and Goff '19.

BASEBALL

The baseball season started with a fine schedule, and the best of prospects as far as material was concerned. Captain Day, left field; "Rog" Chambers, second base, and "Steve" Richardson, catcher, were the only veterans from the previous year's team, but formed a strong nucleus. McCarthy, Westman, Maginnis, Pond, Yesair, and Faxon played consistently.

Westman pitched the majority of games and came through in fine style. After defeating Trinity, the team received a bad setback from Brown. The next week, however, on the campus with Capt. Day making a hit on every trip to the plate, the boys came back and won from Rhode Island in a close game.

Just before the Vermont trip, war was declared, and the schedule after that trip was closed.

FOOTBALL

Due to the late opening of college and war conditions in general, it was decided by the Joint Committee on Athletics to give up Varsity football during the season of 1917. A majority of last year's "M" men did not return to college, having gone into war service. Captain Weeks is a captain of infantry at Camp Devens, Bob Holmes and Lewis Spaulding are second lieutenants, "Ras" Pond is in the Ambulance Corps in France, and "Goo" Grayson is in the National Army. Fraser, Maginnis and Moynihan of last year's squad are second lieutenants.

In place of Varsity football an interclass series was played off, the senior class winning the championship. The members of the Faculty challenged the seniors for the championship of the College and were defeated in a post-season game. Chapman, who was to be manager of football this fall, has been made manager of basketball.

BASKETBALL

Last winter, after a lapse of eight years, Varsity Basketball was taken up. Under the coaching of "Kid" Gore, a good team was whipped together and a successful season carried through. Emory Grayson '17 was captain and Newell Moorehouse '17 manager. The regular team consisted of Pond and McCarthy forwards, E. Grayson center, F. Grayson and Sedgwick guards. The team was well equipped with substitutes, among them Squires, Irving, and Popp forwards, Hawley and Hagelstein centres, King and Parkhurst guards.

M. A. C. Undergraduates in the First Months of War

Since this is the first wartime Index, it is only fair that in it we should make some specific mention of the part our college has already played. We say now that we are proud of that part, but that the limits of space must confine us to the undergraduates.

On April 22, 1917, twenty days after the United States of America entered the war against Germany, President Butterfield announced that plans were being perfected to enable anyone to leave college for war work who wished to do so. Work to be so considered included munition work, military service, war-garden supervision, farming, etc. Later in the same week, Dean Lewis announced that everything had been arranged and added, confidentially, that the president hoped that "in ten days there wouldn't be a man left on the campus."

The plan under which men were allowed to leave was as follows: provided a man's work was declared satisfactory to date by his instructors, he could turn in the address of an employer with whom he had secured a position, sign an agreement binding himself to stay in "mobilization" work for at least twelve weeks, to report any change of address, and to report every four weeks as to the progress of the work. In addition, a report at the end of the twelve weeks was required from the parent or guardian and from the employer. In return for this work, the student was to receive full credit for the courses he was taking at the time. It was further decided to open late in the fall, in order to allow those farmers who secured men from the college to harvest the extra crops they were urged to plant.

Although we did not quite live up to the president's wish, in a very short time four hundred and seventy men had left, and others continued to do so, until only a handful of from twenty to thirty were left to finish out the college year. Of those leaving eighty-four per cent went into agriculture, 66.01 per cent were actually engaged in farming, 5.53 per cent had positions as war-garden supervisors, and 8.07 per cent entered military service. Such are the rough figures regarding the exodus, but the statistics have been much more fully reported upon by the president's office than space here will permit, and our concern is mainly not with how did M. A. C. serve but in what spirit did her men place themselves at Uncle Sam's disposal and to help win the war.

We, being college men, had been trained to believe in the incalculable worth of ideals, and as Massachusetts Agricultural College men we had been trained in military drill and food production—to fill the two greatest needs of America in 1917. Every one of us felt as if we, personally, should be doing something. And so it was that when President Butterfield gave us the chance of serving, we jumped at it.

So we went out from Aggie in the spring of 1917 utterly refusing to regard our action as a sacrifice, and we worked hard all summer. When part of us returned in the fall, we found the ranks greatly thinned. Many had been drafted, others had enlisted after working as farmers all summer, and others had remained on the farm. All during the fall term men kept dropping out. "Where's So and So?" The answer was generally in one word. "Aviation," "Radio," "Balloons," "Draft," or something equally brief and expressive. Although we regretted their going, we knew as each blank file appeared that some other fellow had decided on the course he judged right. And that decision was hard to make. Now as never before, we are coming to realize the important and difficult part of the men who stay behind and farm while they want to fight. "They also serve who only stand and wait," and we all know that the reserves have a harder time of it, in everything excepting the physical sense, than do the first line fighters. Thus it is that we are equally proud of those who have gone and those who have stayed.

This, then, is a brief account of the spirit of the M. A. C. undergraduates in the first few months of the war. We went out to serve, and are still going, with a cynical grin and a punch. We are not puffed up by the small part we have taken, but our one hope for the future is that the spirit that called us may never die, nor even sleep.

In Consideration

Albert E. Burns was born at Hartford, Conn., April 1, 1876. He became quite bald at the age of ten. This resulted from his being the son of a Jewish bartender who used to spin him on his head to see who would pay for the drinks. Water-on-the-brain set in, and the hairs fell in and were drowned. Dr. Burns' whole life is just filled with thrilling adventures like this.

At the tender age of fourteen he had another slight attack of water-on-the-brain which brought with it the desire to go to sea. Accordingly, one bright day early in June of 1890 he walked seventy-eight miles through a raging blizzard to the tracks of the Seaview Railroad. Here he boarded a train which, as he thought, was to bring him to New London and to his heart's desire, the ocean. But alas, the fates were again the boy, for the engineer in starting the train opened the throttle in reverse instead of full speed ahead, with the result that the runaway alighted at Amherst, Mass., in the spring of 1893. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, resolute and undaunted, the lad marched up Main Street with firm tread and grim determination. Crossing Pleasant Street, he followed Amity Street as far as South Prospect Street. Here he met up with a lady by the name of Mrs. Hayrick, who took him in and gave him a good home.

At this time, the Mass. Agate, and Am Hearts Colleges were running full tilt. This good woman became inspired by the good work of these institutions, and founded the far-famed "Hayrick School of Higher Understanding." This point marks the beginning of the young man's pedagogical career. Starting as custodian of the girls' dormitory, he rose rapidly, step by step, to the high office that he now holds, that of Dean of the "H. S. of H. U." He is an excellent man for the place, because he possesses unlimited oratorical ability, to say nothing of his being able to shake his feet.

And so, it is to this man, Dean Albert Euripides Burns, that this book is slovenly dedicated.

C'est La Guerre

After graduating from M. A. C. I was very busy travelling around the country, and I did not keep up to date in the news concerning the college. So it was not until the spring of 1940 that I arrived again in Massachusetts. I determined to visit my Alma Mater again, and I arrived in Amherst in due time and walked up toward college.

As I approached the campus I noted many new houses with Greek letters on the doors or in other conspicuous places. Girls were going in and out of these houses, whistling and chatting away like so many magpies. Later I learned that these were sorority houses. Coming on to the campus I saw numerous other girls going from one building to another, and occasionally one or two fellows, silently walking about arm in arm. All this puzzled me greatly.

In front of the drill hall (which, by the way, had been remodelled and was scarcely recognizable), I met a rather timid looking fellow wearing a freshman cap. I thought I would be friendly, so said, "Hi!" He saluted, and answered, "How do you do." I was rather taken back by this but fell into conversation with him. First I asked him what was going on at the drill hall, for I had seen girls coming from there. "O," he said, "they are preparing for the Informal which is being given to the Amherst fellows tomorrow." "But where are all the fellows?" He informed me that the pingpong team was down on the field practising. The rest of the fellows he thought were in the library or over at Draper Hall. "At Draper Hall!!!" "Yes, that is where most of them room." I was speechless.

We walked toward South College and I noticed an excavation that was being made on the old athletic field. I was informed that a new dormitory for girls, Goessman Hall, was being erected. The freshman said, "Oh, here comes my sister; she is captain of the football team." I saw an athletic looking girl approaching, with a football "M" on her sweater. Her brother introduced me and I received some severely bruised digits from the grip she gave me.

I began the conversation, meanwhile nursing my crushed hand, by asking what was the enrollment of the college. She said there were about 950 girls and 25 fellows, mentioning the fellows rather as an afterthought. I was greatly surprised and asked if there were no sports at Aggie. She looked at me with pity for my ignorance. "We won the football championship from Vassar last fall, we tied Wellesley in hockey, and we have beaten Simmons and Mt. Holyoke in baseball this spring. The most important game is with Smith tomorrow," she said upon leaving. I learned later that M. A. C. and Smith were bitter rivals because the Amherst men came to Aggie for fussing instead of going to Smith.

Just then the chapel bell rang and I decided that I would like to attend chapel again, so we walked toward Stockbridge Hall. Girls poured out of North and South Colleges, all going toward chapel. They gazed at me as if I were a curiosity. I was almost too bewildered to notice that the Chem. Lab had a new coat of paint.

I took a seat in the balcony and looked down on the crowd of girls. Sandwiched in the middle of this crowd were about two rows of fellows, their hands folded in their laps, looking more ornamental than useful. The Dean, a big strapping Amazon, wearing spectacles with a heavy black ribbon attached to them, led the exercises. I was so dazed that the only thing I remember hearing her say was that it had been brought to her attention that some of the fellows had been seen on the campus after ten P. M. "If the rules are disobeyed again those students will have their cutting privilege taken away." The fellows looked meek, and the girls giggled.

As soon as the chapel was over, I rushed to the crosswalks and caught a trolley for uptown. I had seen enough.

A COLLEGE LIFE TALK

Prof.:—"Young men, as you probably know, you are now in college. Can anyone tell me how cold it was this morning? Two below? I might say at this point that the thermometer here in Amherst often registers as much as twenty below, and—let us have order, please! Do any of you fellows think you know how to study? Well, you may now but you won't think so at the end of the term. How many of you have cats in your homes? H-m, not many. The Dean wishes me to announce that the hour plans are due next Friday. Now, when you study, don't stick your feet up higher than your head. That will be all today."

O! It's great to get up in the morning
When the temperature's four below,
And your underclothes feel like an iceberg
That's been out over night in the snow.

O! It's great to get up in the morning
When the chapel clock strikes seven
And run all the way to Stockbridge Hall,
And back home again at eleven.

O! It's great to get up in the morning
When you were out the night before,
And didn't get in till the crowing
Of the rooster just next door.

O! It's great to get up in the morning
When you've classes all day long
And you haven't time for breakfast
And your cuts have long been gone.

O! yes, we all enjoy it
Without a doubt we do,
But if we could make out our schedules
We wouldn't have classes till noon.

Prof. Jones (in agronomy)—Farrington! are you asleep?
Farrington—Nope.
Prof.—Well, then, don't look that way.

Why did you give up smoking?
I chews to reform.

NOAH'S ARK UP TO DATE

King Wilhelm built a ship of state
Like a good old Prussian soul;
He put his Germans on the deck and his family in the hold,
And when he pushed off from the shore
For his place in the sun,
All Europe gathered on the bank and sang
to the sun-of-a-gun,

CHORUS:

Go to — then, go to — then,
Go to — right now with your damned
old frau,
For you ain't going to reign anyhow, anyhow,
For you ain't going to reign anyhow!

Then Wilhelm fell upon his knees,
And prayed that they might drown,
But that God, with His almighty hand would save the German crown.
Then Belgium fair and northern France were raped by his son and heir,
And still came wafted on the breeze
That same ungodly air,

CHORUS:

For three long years and many a day,
The war was waged like —,
The dead men covered all in sight and they rotted where they fell.
Then Wilhelm listening, all afraid, cried out as if in pain,
As far across the sounding seas
The Yanks took up the strain,

CHORUS:

—Douglas Tracy Newbold, '19

First Stude—That girl looks like Helen Green.

Second Stude—She wouldn't look any different in another color.

Hear about the fight in our room?
No.

The door swung on the hinges and the window came down with a slam.

Always something to look forward to!

FACULTY MEETING

While bumming under one of the high-set windows in front of South last year, a detectivorous member of our class caught the sound of a voice, became interested, and listened attentively. This is what he heard:—

"Well, brothers of the faculty, the auspicious moment is at hand. Upon our shoulders rests the task of so regulating the enrollment of this student body that the dormitories be not over-crowded. You all know that up to the present time the greater part of the Junior and Senior classes have been able to room in the dormitories. If this is to continue it is up to us to eradicate a goodly part of this Sophomore class of 1919, and in this work I see great possibilities. In view of the fact that about 30 per cent of the class will drop out voluntarily, it will only be necessary to conspire against a half dozen or so. My plan is to pick, at this time, those who are to be eliminated, and for all of us to attack them simultaneously. The scheme is sure to work, for if any one of us fails to "get" our men, the rest of us will land them at some time during the year."

"In glancing over the Sophomore class registration, I find there is only one man whose name begins with "A." He should be allowed to remain for completeness' sake if for no other reason. Now we come to the "B's." Let's see, one of those Babers could be dispensed with, I suppose, but we'll let them alone for the present."

"Ha! Here are our first victims! Beadle and Bigelow—Beadle is deuced hard on one's nerves, anyway, and Bigelow has a brother in the freshman class. We want to guard against family reunions, do we not?" (Murmurs of approval.) "Hm—, C. D. Blanchard: he's a good-natured cuss, and what's more, he wants to leave to go to work, so we'll let him stay, although he is rather annoying when he goes to sleep during a lecture."

"Sylvia B. Brigham—Women on the campus are at a premium, so we'll not send her away. Besides, she'll be good company for Skinner. Here's Buffum—he's pretty fresh—but so very young and small that it would be a shame to send him home. What about this man Carpenter from Somerville? He's a runner, isn't he? A valuable man; probably he will run for some high office some day, and might help the college."

"Ah! W. R. Cone—His very name is too pointed, I fancy him not! He is a marked man from this day henceforth. I'd like to get Day, but I guess there's no chance—he's too clever. Bena G. Erhardt—if we send her away we will also lose one of the best trombone players this side of Norwottuck. Here's another co-ed—Ethel Lovett Harris. She's all right; I like her middle name, too. We better put a question mark after Hunter's name; don't know enough about him yet."

"Allan Giles Kennedy! Got a brother in the Junior class, hasn't he? And if I remember rightly, he gave me a soup bath down at the Columbia Cafe one day last year. Get him, brethren, get him! Frank E. Knight, huh, let him alone and he'll die a natural death. Andrew L. Martin—another member of the waiters' union. Don't like his face—out with him! R-R-Ratner—has a rodenal sound, hasn't it? I'll give him till the end of this college year. Whew! S-c-h-e-n-k-e-l-berger—Let him alone!! He has enough trouble as it is with a name like that."

"Here's a difficult proposition, men. Everett Hamilton Skinner—I know for sure that he makes fun of me behind my back, but I can't catch him at it. He won't pass my course this fall, though, I'll swear to that."

"I see we have quite a few "W's" here. Let's strike out Wheeler and White. Can't get White, though, I'm afraid. He never even chews gum in his classes. Moreover, Providence has sent him here, and far be it from me to interfere with the designs of the powers that be. Yesair stays for the same reason that Alden does."

"And that gives us our quota, Gentlemen, let us adjourn until the week before finals."

ENGLISH LECTURE

Burns was one of the greatest writers of his day—by the way, all hour plans must be in the Dean's office by Friday or the cutting privilege of the delinquent students will be revoked—his sonnets are word pictures—oh yes, and the sonnets must be in by Thanksgiving, no further allowance of time will be given—his love lyrics have not been equaled in the English language—I might say that a prize is to be given for the best essay on modern writers.

Kid Gore, throwing some once white stockings against the ceiling—"Those are clean, they don't stick."

If at first you don't succeed

Give it up!

For you to work there is no need

Give it up!

Dad will feed you like a steer

Ma will keep her weakling dear

They'll support you never fear

Give it up!

But remember if you do

You'll surrender all that's true

And become like vagrants who

Give it up!

Doc. Gordon—"How can a bird see all around without turning around?"

"By turning part way around."

Doc. Wellington—"What smells the most in a drug store?"

Bright Stude—"Your nose."

Prof. Patterson lecturing about his favorite poet Keats:

"His narrative is highly wrought."

Co-ed taking notes:

"Narrative highly rot."

Prof. Hart—illustrating a point in a lecture by means of a story about how beavers do construction work in streams:

"The young beaver puts the bar in the wrong way; the old beaver, noticing the mistake, turns the stick around and cuffs the young beaver on the head. You see the old beaver had learned to "dam" properly.

In Supervision Special—Prof. Thompson illustrating different varieties of squashes:

"I haven't a very good shaped marble-head."

Prof. Jones, telling Asa White to pick up the book he has just thrown:

"Mr. Green, pick that book up." No answer.

"Mr. Green, pick that book up."

Asa White—"You must be color blind, I'm not Green, I'm White."

PICKING A MAJOR

The freshman at home has heard of the county agents. He determines he will elect Agricultural Economics and become a real county agent. He hasn't been on the campus more than a few months before he has heard juniors and seniors swearing about the work they have to do in the course. He immediately decides that Aggie Ec. isn't in his line. He next thinks of Entomology. He is going to take graduate work and get a government position. He finds zoology is a prerequisite and after taking one of Doc Gordon's courses, Entomology no longer has any fascination. He comes next to Botany and he is all imbued with the desire to become a great pathologist. After vainly peering thru a microscope at plant cells for a couple of weeks he decides Botany is out of his line. Agronomy now meets his eye. He seen finds that he must spend too much time in the laboratory for his liking so he turns that down. He now determines to become a great chemist, but after endeavoring to learn some of Doc. Peters' formulas he gives up in disgust. In desperation he decides to elect General Agriculture for he has heard that it is a combination of the easiest parts of all the courses. However, he soon finds out differently and as a final resort takes Pomology and for the rest of his college course takes life easy.

Chem. Prof.—"What would you do if a person should accidentally take some hydrocyanic acid?"

Student—"I would give him some hydrogen peroxide which would form an oxamide."

Voice in back of room—"Then give him some mercuric chloride and it would form a corpse."

Freshman in Algebra—"What good does it do us to study square and cube roots?"

Instructor—"Every farmer should know something about roots."

From the Faculty point of view.

THE LAST PHYSICS CLASS

Scene—Students shivering in the pews in the Physics Building.

(Billy the all powerful enters exhaling the last whiff from his Bull Durham cigarette.)

Billy—Gentlemen, please come to order, one person in a seat is sufficient. There appears to be only half the class here today, guess the rest are beginning to get cold feet. I should think they would after the showing most of you made in the last quiz. It ain't going to do 'em any good to cut, for I'll stick 'em all, if they don't do their work. Some of you will try and cut when the Angel Gabriel blows his horn, but yer'll get caught in the end. Some of you say yer spendin' two hours on yer Physics each day. Yer must put the book under a pillow and sit on it, by the showing you're making. Gentlemen, yer can't absorb physics by osmosis. Will somebody wake up Blanchard?

Red—I ain't asleep. I was just thinking.

Billy—Yer can't fool me. Go up to the board and prove that acceleration  $= \frac{4\pi^2 x}{p^2}$ . While you're chewing over that we'll see what the rest of you know. Peirson, what is the formula for force?

Peirson—Don't know. It's patented by the Postum Cereal Co.

Billy—Buffum, what do you know about friction?

Buff—It burns when you slide on it.

Billy—Field, describe buoyancy.

Field—Buoyancy is a bob used to mark channels and hang lanterns on.

Billy—Faxon, tell what yer can about Kepler's third law.

P. Faxon—Kepler wrote two important laws in physics, each of which is used a great deal. After much experimenting he wrote a third law which has been universally accepted, and which is known throughout the world of physics as Kepler's third law.

Billy—Blanchard, rub it out and take yer seat.

Red—There ain't nothing to rub out, but I'll be glad to sit down.

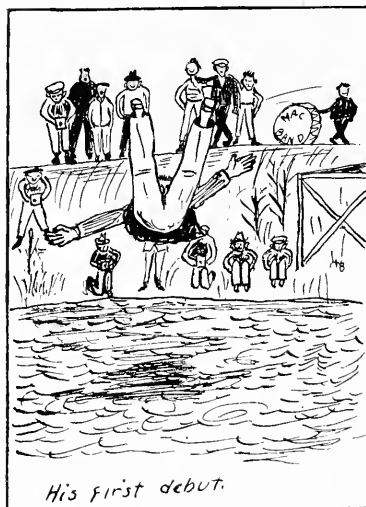

Billy—Ross, how many of the examples did you do?

Dinny—I most finished the first one.

Billy—What was the trouble?

Dinny—I didn't know what formula to use.

Billy—This recitation shows you know something about physics, so I am going to give you all a chance to raise your marks. If yer'll meet me in Doc Gordon's Zoo lab tomorrow morning, I'll give yer something to keep you busy, and see to it yer pass this exam or yer'll all be buying one way tickets at the end of the term. That'll do, gentlemen!

GRAPE NUTS—A CEREAL

Act I—Peaceful pond surrounded by verdant foliage and expectant spectators.

Act II—Sound of bass drum is heard. Spectators become nervous. Procession of students come marching from North Dorm. Part of participants dressed in an air of pride, others in bath robes.

Act III—Band forms on bank of pond. Two "Huskies" proceed to throw scantily dressed members into the drink.

Act IV—To be continued.

Prof. Mackimmie (French 50—"Who was the father of sonnets?"

Cy Tirrell (just waking up)—"Dean Lewis."

Red—"What do you think of my stockings?"

White—"Are they dyed?"

Red—"No. Do they smell dead?"

Tailor to Bone Day—"What size will you have your hip pockets, pint or quart?"

Stud—"Why is it that a race of people coming from a cold climate into a warm one increase so rapidly?"

Doc Sprague—"Things naturally expand when they are warmed."

Skinner—"I am going to enlist in the balloon service."

Buffum—"Why is that?"

Skinner—"Because it is the safest. If the balloon bursts you can shinny down the rope."

Capt.—"You are to be shot at sunrise."

Prisoner—"It can't be done, I don't get up that early."

S. H. to comic editor—"Say, are you going to roast me in the Index?"

Comic Editor—"No sir! You are doomed to roast in a hotter place than the Index."

Shorthorn (gazing at Drill Hall—"Golly, that's a big barn over there."

First—"Great day."

Second—"Yes, it grates all over you."

Thomas to Blanchard in a street car—"Get up Red and let these three ladies sit down."

In Zoology:

"What is the highest form of animal life?"

"The giraffe."

Bena—"Where are you going tonight?"

Ethel—"Lapland."

A—"Where are you working this summer?"

B—"In a bank."

A—"What doing?"

B—"Shoveling gravel."

WHY NOT USE A TOWEL?

"They say George has water on his knee."

"What is he going to do about it?"

"The doctor advised him to wear pumps."

This Booklet will help you when you are planning for the future:—the time when you are going to work out the ideas and plans you have formed while in college.

The different greenhouses illustrated will help you form a picture of your greenhouse. It has some common sense facts about buying a greenhouse, and illustrates the kind of greenhouse construction the "big people" are using.

One photograph shows the interior of George W. Kuchler's house at La Grangeville, New York, with a money-making crop of radishes ready for the market. Mr. Kuchler is a college graduate who saw the immense probabilities of all-year-round vegetable growing.

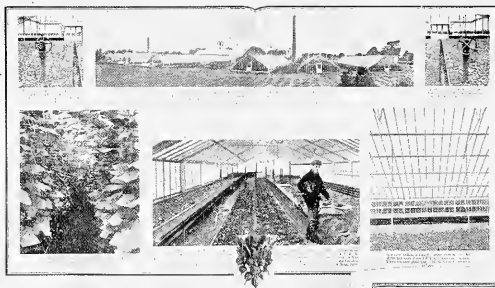

He is making money at it. If he can do it, so can you.

This booklet should be the first step to your success. Write for it now.

An Appreciation

---

It seems very fitting that at this time we should express our most sincere appreciation to the various friends around campus who so kindly helped to make this book a success. Dean Lewis, who wrote the very inspiring dedication, deserves special mention. Professor Hasbrouck and Mr. Watts have aided us a great deal by checking up class lists and loaning pictures of campus scenery. Ralph T. Howe, who did the typewriting for practically the whole book, should also be given his share of the credit. To all others who have in any way assisted in making this "War Index" a book containing quality if not quantity, we wish to extend our thanks.

THE STAFF.
